I.

INTRODUCTION

On April 10, 2026, the Court entered default judgment in favor of plaintiff EM Investment Group LLC ("Plaintiff") and against defendants Global LA Investing, LLC and Mohammad Azadzo ("Defendant"). On the same day, Defendant filed a motion to vacate the judgment. On May 8, 2026, the Court denied Defendant's motion.

On May 18, 2026, Defendant filed this motion for reconsideration.

On June 23, 2026, Plaintiff filed an opposition brief.

No reply brief is on file.

II.

DISCUSSION

“[A] motion for reconsideration be based on new or different facts, circumstances, or law. A party seeking reconsideration also must provide a satisfactory explanation for the failure to produce the evidence at an earlier time.” (New York Times Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 135 Cal.App.4th 206, 212.) Defendant argues there are new or different facts and circumstances that warrant reconsideration of the Court’s May 8, 2026, Order. These facts and circumstances are stated in the Declarations of Mohammad Azadoi and Peter Bronstein. But nothing in Defendant’s declaration contains information that could not have been presented earlier in connection with his moving papers because it does not include newly-discovered information. (Garcia v. Hejmadi (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 674, 689-690 [reconsideration improper where evidence reflected knowledge party had from outset of litigation].)

Also, while defense counsel Peter Bronstein declares that he did not have anything calendared for May 8, 2026, these stated circumstances do not provide a basis for reconsideration when considering that defense reserved the hearing date and filed the motion. Defense counsel states that he did not receive an opposition brief, which is why he failed to file a reply brief with supplemental declarations; he also claims that he “do[es] not have an agreement with opposing counsel to receive documents by email” (Bronstein Decl., ¶ 7.) This statement directly contradicts the proof of service attached to the declaration, which states that the motion was served “[b]y Email to [sic] pursuant to attorneys [sic] agreement to email service.” (Motion, p. 9.) Moreover, whether the parties had an agreement for email service is irrelevant because Los Angeles Superior Court requires attorneys to accept electronic service. (CRC 2.251(c); LASC rule 3.4)

III.

CONCLUSION

The motion for reconsideration is DENIED.

Judge of the Superior Court

Parties who intend to submit on this tentative must send an email to the Court at indicating intention to submit on the tentative as directed by the instructions provided on the court website at www.lacourt.org. Please be advised that if you submit on the tentative and elect not to appear at the hearing, the opposing party may nevertheless appear at the hearing and argue the matter. Unless you receive a submission from all other parties in the matter, you should assume that others might appear at the hearing to argue. If the Court does not receive emails from the parties indicating submission on this tentative ruling and there are no appearances at the hearing, the Court may, at its discretion, adopt the tentative as the final order or place the motion off calendar.
