Plaintiff

Zuojun Zhuang's Motion for Leave to File First Amended Complaint

Respondent:

NO OPPOSITION

TENTATIVE

RULING

Plaintiff

Zuojun Zhuang's Motion for Leave to File First Amended Complaint is GRANTED. Plaintiff Marlene Delgado is ORDERED to FILE SEPARATELY

the proposed AMENDED COMPLAINT.

BACKGROUND

This

is a personal injury action. On January

24, 2023, plaintiff Juojun Zhuang (Zhuang) allegedly fell through the roof of defendant JCN Investment Group LLC (JCN) and sustained injuries.

On January

23, 2025, Zhuang filed the Complaint, alleging causes of action for (1) general negligence and (2) premises liability.

On

May 21, 2026, Zhuang filed this motion for leave to file amended complaint, which is unopposed.

This

case is set for a post-mediation status conference/trial setting conference and a hearing on the motion on August 6, 2026.

ANALYSIS

Zhuang

moves to file a proposed Amended Complaint.

For the following reasons, the motion is GRANTED.

Legal

Standard

court may, in furtherance of justice, and on any terms as may be proper, allow a party to amend any pleading.” (Code Civ. Proc., § 473, subd. (a)(1).) The court’s discretion will usually be exercised liberally to permit amendments of the pleadings. (Nestle v. City of Santa Monica (1972) 6 Cal.3d 920, 939.) “A motion to amend a pleading

before trial must . . . [i]nclude a copy of the proposed . . . amended pleading, which must be serially numbered to differentiate it; [s]tate what allegations in the previous pleading are proposed to be deleted, if any, and where, by page, paragraph, and line number, the deleted allegations are located; and [s]tate what allegations are proposed to be added to the previous pleading, if any, and where, by page, paragraph, and line number, the additional allegations are located.” (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 3.1324(a).) “

The motion must include a declaration that specifies the amendment’s effect, why it is necessary and proper, when the facts supporting the amended allegations were discovered, and why the request was not made earlier.” (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 3.1324(b).)

Nevertheless,

even where a moving party complies with the requirements of Rule 3.1324 and such proposed amendment is proper, leave to amend is not an absolute right. (See In re Marriage of Liss

(1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 1426, 1429, noting, “Of course, a trial court also has discretion to deny amendments to pleadings if amendment would not be in furtherance of justice.”) A court may properly deny amendment based on several factors, including the bad faith conduct of the moving party, the belated presentation of the amendment, or the futility of the amendment. (See Leader v. Health Industries of America, Inc. (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 603, 613; see also Jenkins v. JP Morgan Chase Bank, Nat. Assn. (2013) 216 Cal.App.4th 497, 535, suggesting that the court deny leave to amend based on futility where the facts are not in dispute and no liability exists under substantive law; see, e.g., Hirsa v. Super. Ct. (1981) 118 Cal.App.3d 486, 490, holding that the court may deny leave to amend if the moving party needlessly delayed, which prejudiced the opposing party.) Further, leave to amend must be denied where prejudice is shown to the adverse party. (Miles v. City of Los Angeles (2020) 56 Cal.App.5th 728, 739.) Prejudice exists where the amendment would require delaying the trial, resulting in loss of critical evidence, or added costs of preparation, including the completion of additional discovery. (Solit v. Tokai Bank, Ltd. N.Y. Branch (1999) 68 Cal.App.4th 1435, 1448; see also Miles, supra, at 739.)

Discussion

As

a preliminary matter, the court must determine whether the motion complies with the requirements of Rule 3.1324. As stated above, the California Rules of Court require the moving plaintiff to identify the proposed changes to the pleading, explain why such changes are necessary and proper, and further explain why the changes were not made sooner. (Cal. Rules of Court, Rule 3.1324, subds. (a)–(b).)

Zhuang

provides a copy of the proposed Amended Complaint. (See Mot., Exh. A.) Even though Zhuang does not include a redlined copy of the Amended Complaint to identify the proposed changes, the court finds the motion sufficiently identifies the proposed changes. (See Mot., pp. 12–13.) Zhuang explains that the proposed changes “add a Cause of Action Negligence Pursuant to Labor Code section 3706 (failure to secure workers’ compensation insurance); and 6403 (failure to provide a safe place of employment).” (Mot., p. 7.) Zhuang did not seek amendment sooner because he learned the new facts that serve as the basis for amendment only after litigation started and the parties engaged in discovery. (See Mot., Bourgi Decl., ¶¶ 3–6, 8–9.) Thus, Zhuang’s motion complies with Rule 3.1324, and the court may permit him to file the proposed Amended Complaint, unless amendment is not in the furtherance of justice.

JCN

did not file any opposition to argue that amendment is not in the furtherance of justice. (See Moulton Niguel Water Dist. v. Colombo (2003) 111 Cal.App.4th 1210, 1215, stating that “[c]ontentions are waived when a party fails to support them with reasoned argument and citations to authority.”) Since there is no indication of bad faith, belated presentation, futility, or prejudice, the court finds there is no reason to deny amendment.

Accordingly,
the court GRANTS the motion for leave to file an amended complaint.

CONCLUSION

For these reasons, the motion for leave to file first amended complaint is GRANTED. Plaintiff Zuojun Zhuang is ORDERED to FILE SEPARATELY the proposed AMENDED COMPLAINT.
