Case Number: 26SMCV02545 Hearing Date: June 29, 2026 Dept: I

This is a UD case where (as far as the court knows) possession remains at issue. The court set the trial date very recently—June 16, 2026.

That was at plaintiff's request. The court warned the parties, though, especially plaintiff, that it expected full compliance with the court's FSC and trial rules. To date, the court has received no FSC materials other than two motions in limine by plaintiff. Given that, it does not appear that the matter is ready for trial. The court will inquire, though. That could be because possession is no longer at issue.

If that is the reason, it is a very good one. If it is because the parties are not ready, the court is not in a position to go forward with the trial because the court does not have the necessary trial materials, which likely means that the trial date will have to be vacated and we will need to have a different discussion. The court will inquire. The matter remains one where possession is at issue, the likely result will be that the trial date will be vacated and the court will hold a TSC sometime in the next two weeks to re-set the trial date.
