vs.

DEFENDANT: CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS AND REHABILITATION, A STATE ENTITY ET AL.

NATURE OF PROCEEDINGS: MOTION – SUMMARY JUDGMENT

RULING

Defendant California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation’s (“Defendant” or “CDCR”) Motion for Summary Judgment, or in the alternative Summary Adjudication, is DENIED.

REQUEST FOR JUDICIAL NOTICE

Defendant’s Request for Judicial Notice No. 1 is GRANTED. (Evid. Code, § 452, subd. (d).)

OBJECTIONS TO EVIDENCE

Defendant’s Objections to Evidence Nos. 2, 3, 6, 7, 8, and 9 are SUSTAINED. Objections Nos. 1, 4, 5, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, and 15 are OVERRULED.

LEGAL STANDARD

A party may move for summary judgment “if it is contended that the action has no merit or that there is no defense to the action or proceeding.” (Code Civ. Proc., § 437c, subd. (a)(1).) “[I]f all the evidence submitted, and all inferences reasonably deducible from the evidence and uncontradicted by other inferences or evidence, show that there is no triable issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law,” the moving party will be entitled to summary judgment. (Adler v. Manor Healthcare Corp. (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1110, 1119.)

The moving party bears an initial burden of production to make a prima facie showing of the nonexistence of any triable issue of material fact, and if the party does so, the burden shifts to the opposing party to make a prima facie showing of the existence of a triable issue of material fact. (Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 Cal.4th 826, 850; accord Code Civ. Proc., § 437c, subd. (p)(2).) “Once the defendant ... has met that burden, the burden shifts to the plaintiff... to show that a triable issue of one or more material facts exists as to the cause of action or a defense thereto.” (Ibid.) “If the plaintiff cannot do so, summary judgment should be granted.” (Avivi v. Centro Medico Urgente Med. Ctr. (2008) 159 Cal.App.4th 463, 467, as modified (Jan. 24, 2008).)

“When deciding whether to grant summary judgment, the court must consider all of the evidence set forth in the papers (except evidence to which the court has sustained an objection), as well as all reasonable inferences that may be drawn from that evidence, in the light most favorable to the party opposing summary judgment.” (Ibid.; see also Code Civ. Proc., § 437c, subd. (c).)

DISCUSSION

Plaintiff’s First Amended Complaint (“FAC”) states four causes of action: 1. Race Discrimination; 2. Race Harassment; 3. Disparate Treatment; and 4. Failure to Take Reasonable Steps to Prevent and Correct Discrimination and Harassment. Defendant moves for Summary Judgment, or in the alternative Summary Adjudication, on the following issues:

ISSUE No. 1: Defendant CDCR is entitled to summary judgment or summary adjudication on Plaintiff’s discrimination claim under the Fair Employment and Housing Act (“FEHA”) because Plaintiff was hired for the position she applied for and there were no delays in the process based on her race.

ISSUE No. 2: Defendant CDCR is entitled to summary judgement or summary adjudication on Plaintiff’s race harassment claim under FEHA because Plaintiff was not subject to a hostile work environment and because Plaintiff failed to file an administrative complaint for race harassment before filing her lawsuit.

ISSUE No. 3: Defendant CDCR is entitled to summary judgment or summary adjudication on Plaintiff’s disparate treatment claim in violation of FEHA because Plaintiff was hired for the position she applied for, there were no delays in the process based on her race, and CDCR treated Plaintiff the same as all other candidates.

ISSUE No. 4: Defendant DSH is entitled to summary judgment or summary adjudication on Plaintiff’s claim of failure to take all reasonable and necessary steps to prevent and correct discrimination and harassment under FEHA because her underlying claims are not viable.

(See Notice of Motion, p. 2:1-16.)

Race Discrimination

It is an unlawful employment practice for an employer to refuse to hire or employ a person, to discharge a person from employment, or to discriminate against the person in compensation or in terms, conditions, or privileges of employment on the basis of race or religious creed. (Gov. Code, § 12940, subd. (a).)

To establish a claim for discrimination in violation of FEHA, the plaintiff must generally prove that: (1) he or she was a member of a protected class; (2) he or she was qualified for the position he or she sought or was performing competently in the position he or she held; (3) he or she suffered an adverse employment action, such as termination, demotion, or denial of an available job; and (4) some other circumstance suggesting discriminatory motive. (Guz v. Bechtel National, Inc. (2000) 24 Cal.4th 317, 355.)

Proof of discriminatory intent often depends on inferences rather than direct evidence. (Nazir v. United Airlines, Inc. (2009) 178 Cal.App.4th 243, 283, citing Spitzer v. Good Guys, Inc. (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 1376, 1386.) And because it does, “very little evidence of such intent is necessary to defeat summary judgment.” (Id., citing Nadaf-Rahrov v. Neiman Marcus Group, Inc. (2008) 166 Cal.App.4th 952, 991–992.) Put conversely, summary judgment should not be granted unless the evidence cannot support any reasonable inference for plaintiff. (Id., citing Spitzer v. Good Guys, Inc., supra, 80 Cal.App.4th at p. 1386; Miller v. Department of Corrections (2005) 36 Cal.4th 446, 470.)

Here Defendant contends there are no adverse employment action “Plaintiff was hired for the position she applied for and there were no delays in the process based on her race.” Defendant’s facts in support of Summary Adjudication of this issue are sufficient to meet Defendant’s burden. (See Separate Statement of Undisputed Material Facts (“UMF”) Nos. 1-30. In response, Plaintiff has demonstrated triable issues of material fact exist. (See Plaintiff’s Response to Separate Statement of Undisputed Material Facts (“RSS”) Nos. 6-12, 15, 17-22, 24-30.)

Race Harassment

Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

Exhaustion of an administrative remedy is generally a jurisdictional prerequisite to an action in court. (Baker v. Children's Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1989) 209 Cal.App.3d 1057, 1062.) Here, it is undisputed that Plaintiff filed a timely DFEH claim and that Plaintiff was issued a right to sue letter. (UMF No. 32.) The question is whether Plaintiff can maintain the cause of action for harassment when it was not specifically enumerated in the DFEH claim.

In Brown v. City of Sacramento (2019) 37 Cal.App.5th 587, 600, the Court of Appeal stated: The administrative exhaustion requirement is satisfied if FEHA claims in the judicial complaint are “ ‘like and reasonably related to’ “ those in the DFEH complaint or “likely to be uncovered in the course of a DFEH investigation”. In determining whether a Plaintiff exhausted his administrative remedies the court construes the DFEH complaint “liberally” and “in light of what might be uncovered by a reasonable investigation.” (Id.)

Though the DFEH complaint does not specifically discuss harassment based on race, the Court will construe the DFEH complaint broadly. There is at least a triable issue as to whether the race harassment claim was reasonably related to the race discrimination claim and likely to be uncovered during the course of the DFEH investigation.

Hostile Work Environment

Defendant next contends that the Harassment claim fails because Plaintiff cannot establish she suffered a hostile work environment.

FEHA prohibits harassment of an employee “because of race, religious creed, color, national origin, ancestry, physical disability, mental disability, medical condition, genetic information, marital status, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, age, sexual orientation, or veteran or military status.” (Gov. Code, § 12940, subd. (j)(1).) “To establish a prima facie case of harassment, [Plaintiff] must show that (1) [Plaintiff] is a member of a protected class; (2) [Plaintiff] was subjected to unwelcome harassment; (3) the harassment was based on [Plaintiff’s] protected status; (4) the harassment unreasonably interfered with [Plaintiff’s] work performance by creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive work environment; and (5) defendants are liable for the harassment.” (Galvan v. Dameron Hospital Assn. (2019) 37 Cal.App.5th 549, 563.) A hostile work environment is created “when the harassing behavior is pervasive or severe.” (Hughes v. Pair (2009) 46 Cal.4th 1035, 1043.) In other words, the harassment must be “severe enough or sufficiently pervasive to alter the conditions of employment and create a work environment that qualifies as hostile or abusive to employees because of their [protected status].” (Miller v. Department of Corrections (2005) 36 Cal.4th 446, 462.) Thus, “an employee generally cannot recover for harassment that is occasional, isolated, sporadic, or trivial; rather, the employee must show a concerted pattern of harassment of a repeated, routine, or a generalized nature.” (Lyle v. Warner Brothers Television Productions (2006) 38 Cal.4th 264, 283.)

In determining if harassment is severe enough to be actionable, “[T]he objective severity of harassment should be judged from the perspective of a reasonable person in the plaintiff’s position, considering all the circumstances. [Citation.]” (Miller, supra, 36 Cal.4th at p. 462, quoting Oncale v. Sundowner Offshore Services, Inc. (1998) 523 U.S. 75, 81-82.) This is an inquiry requiring “careful consideration of the social context in which particular behavior occurs and is experienced by its target” in which “[c]ommon sense, and an appropriate sensibility to social context, will enable courts and juries to distinguish between simple teasing or roughhousing ... and conduct which a reasonable person in the plaintiff’s position would find severely hostile or abusive.” (Ibid.)

Here Defendant has made a sufficient initial showing that the acts complained of were not sufficiently pervasive or severe to constitute harassment. (See UMF Nos, 1-32.) The burden therefore shifted back to Plaintiff to demonstrate triable issues of material fact exist. Plaintiff has done so. (See RSS Nos. 6-12, 15, 17-22, 24-32.) Whether a jury finds that these incidents are so unwelcome, severe or pervasive to alter Plaintiff’s conditions of employment and create a hostile work environment is a question of fact.

Disparate Treatment

Under a disparate treatment theory, discrimination occurs when the employer treats some people less favorably than others because of their race, color, ... or national origin. (Frank v. Cnty. of Los Angeles (2007) 149 Cal.App.4th 805, 822–23.) The plaintiff must prove the ultimate fact that the defendant engaged in intentional discrimination. (Id.) However, Federal and California courts have acknowledged the difficulty of proving intentional discrimination: Proving intentional discrimination can be difficult because there will seldom be “eyewitness” testimony as to the employer’s mental processes. (Id.) It is rare for a plaintiff to be able to produce direct evidence or ‘smoking gun’ evidence of discrimination. (Id.) Thus, plaintiffs may demonstrate via indirect or circumstantial evidence that they were the victims of discrimination. (Id.)

In this case, Defendant asserts that the Disparate Treatment claim fails because Plaintiff was hired for the position she applied for, there were no delays in the process based on her race, and CDCR treated Plaintiff the same as all other candidates. Again, Defendant has met its initial burden on Summary Adjudication. (See UMF Nos. 1-30.) Plaintiff has successfully countered to demonstrate triable issues of material fact remain. (See RSS Nos. 6-12, 15, 17-22, 24-32.)

Failure to Prevent

The elements of a claim for failure to take all reasonable steps to prevent discrimination or harassment or retaliation from occurring are: (1) plaintiff was subjected to discrimination, harassment or retaliation; (2) defendant failed to take all reasonable steps to prevent discrimination, harassment or retaliation; and (3) this failure caused plaintiff to suffer injury, damage, loss or harm. (Caldera v. Dep't of Corr. & Rehab. (2018) 25 Cal.App.5th 31, 43.)

Here Defendant argues this claim fails because her underlying claims are not valid, i.e. she cannot prove the first element. However, as stated above, at this stage in the proceedings, the claims are not properly resolved. Because they survive summary judgment/adjudication, so too does the claim for failure to prevent.

For these reasons, the Motion for Summary Judgment, or in the alternative Summary Adjudication, is denied.

PETITIONER: DEBORAH STEIN

vs.

DEFENDANT: HEADLANDS II OWNERS
ASSOCIATION ET AL.

NATURE OF PROCEEDINGS: MOTION – COMPEL

RULING

Defendant Joseph Aiello’s (“Defendant”) Motion to Compel Arbitration and Stay the pending litigation pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.2 is DENIED.

Background

This action arises out of alleged water intrusion into plaintiff Deborah Stein's (“Plaintiff”) condominium at 242 Headlands Court, Sausalito, California. Plaintiff alleges she incurred damages because of this water intrusion and the subsequent repair attempts, including mold contamination, property damage, and loss of use.

Plaintiff filed her original complaint on May 29, 2025. The Second Amended Complaint (“SAC”), filed on October 15, 2025, is the operative pleading. The SAC names Headlands II Homeowners Association, Schmitt Heating Co., Inc., Enviro-Star Corporation, Everest General Contractor LLC, and Grayson Property Management LLC, along with Doe Defendants 1 through 25 as defendants. It was not until April 25, 2026, that Defendant Aiello was added through a Doe Amendment (as Doe 6) as the individual believed to be the owner of the condominium above Plaintiff's own and from which Plaintiff alleges the water intrusion, at least in part, originated.

Defendant Aiello filed the present Motion to Compel Arbitration on July 13, 2026, although two other Motions to Compel were previously filed and withdrawn prior to their hearing dates.

Objections to Evidence

Plaintiff's Objections to Evidence Nos. 1-10 are OVERRULED.

Legal Standard

The California Arbitration Act ("CAA") articulates a strong public policy in favor of arbitration. "The CAA 'represents a comprehensive statutory scheme regulating private arbitration in this state. [Citation.] Under section 1281.2, the court is required to "order contractual arbitration in a proper case.'" (Molecular Analytical Systems v. CIPHERGEN Biosystems, Inc. (2010) 186 Cal.App.4th 696, 704,)

The existence of a valid agreement to arbitrate is a "question of arbitrability" to be decided by the court unless the parties expressly agree otherwise. (Howsam v. Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc. (2002) 537 U.S. 79, 83 [questions of arbitrability include whether parties are bound by an arbitration clause or whether binding clause applies to particular case or controversy].) The party seeking to arbitrate must prove the existence of the agreement. (Pinnacle Museum Tower Assn. v. Pinnacle Market Development (US), LLC (2012) 55 Cal.4th 223, 236 [internal quotations and citations omitted].) If it does so, the burden shifts to the party opposing arbitration to "demonstrate that an arbitration provision cannot be interpreted to require arbitration of the dispute" or that the agreement is otherwise unenforceable. (Coast Plaza Doctors Hospital v. Blue Cross of California (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 677, 686-87.)

However, arbitration – whether under the CAA or Federal Arbitration Act – "is a matter of consent, not coercion ... a party cannot be required to submit to arbitration any dispute which he has not agreed so to submit." (Pinnacle, supra, 55 Cal.4th at 236.)

Discussion

Existence of Agreement to Arbitrate

In support of this Motion, Defendant relies on the Declaration of Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions Headlands II Homeowners Association ("CC&Rs") recorded on April 27, 2017 in Marin County and the arbitration clause contained within those CC&Rs.

The CC&Rs state:

12.3(c)(2) "Owner-to-Owner Disputes: Mediation/Arbitration. in the event of a dispute between Owners, affected Owners shall attempt to resolve any dispute by mediation. The cost of the mediator shall be borne equally. If the parties cannot agree on a mediator to provide this service, the Association can recommend and/or facilitate the use of an Alternative Dispute Resolution provider. In the alternative, any party can request the president of the Marin County Bar Association to identify a local low cost mediation service provider, and such designation shall be binding. If mediation fails and the dispute continues, the parties shall proceed with binding arbitration administered by the American Arbitration Association and in accordance with the applicable procedures established by that organization.”

(Pollack Decl., Ex. B.)

To establish that the agreement is enforceable by Defendant as an owner, the Motion attaches Plaintiff’s SAC which alleges in part:

“Additionally, any condo owners sharing one or more adjoining walls, floors, or ceilings with Ms. Stein’s condo within the Headlands Complex, including Defendant Joseph Aiello (herein “Aiello”), owed Ms. Stein a duty of care to ensure their adjoining condo was sufficiently maintained and repaired such that it did not cause damage to Ms. Stein’s condo. Likewise, any third parties hired by adjoining condo owners, such as Defendant Mr. Aiello, to maintain and/or repair their condo owed a duty of care to Ms. Stein to ensure any maintenance and repair performed did not cause damage to Ms. Stein’s unit. Ms. Stein was a third-party contract beneficiary of any such contracts. From approximately February 2022 to as recently as August 2025, Ms. Stein experienced water intrusion issues within her condo that, upon information and belief, originated from the common areas of the Headlands Complex and from Aiello’s condo situated above hers, which she promptly reported to both Defendant Headlands HOA and Defendant Aiello.... Upon information and belief, the water intrusion was the result of Defendant Headlands II HOA, failure to adequately maintain and/or repair common areas and/or the result of Defendant Aiello’s failure to adequately maintain and/or repair his condo, such that it impacted and caused damage to Ms. Stein’s condo. It was later discovered by Ms. Stein that Defendant Comcast, believed to have been hired by Defendant Mr. Aiello and/or Defendant Headlands HOA, had altered the condition of the doorframe between the inside of Aiello’s condo to the outside deck in order to run a cable through that area and had failed to adequately seal the frame, allowing dry rot to develop and water to intrude into Ms. Stein’s condo.”

(SAC, GN-1.)

Defendant’s Reply confirms he is relying on Plaintiff’s SAC to establish his ownership. (Reply p. 2:17.) However, not every factual allegation in a complaint automatically constitutes a judicial admission. (Watson v. Pro. Bus. Mgmt. Corp. (2026) 120 Cal.App.5th 860, 869–70.)

Otherwise, a plaintiff would conclusively establish the facts of the case by merely alleging them, and there would never be any disputed facts to be tried. (Ibid.) Instead, “a judicial admission is ordinarily a factual allegation by one party that is admitted by the opposing party. The factual allegation is removed from the issues in the litigation because the parties agree as to its truth. Thus, facts to which adverse parties stipulate are judicially admitted.” (Ibid.)

In Watson moving party wished to hold plaintiff to the agency allegations contained in the complaint only for the purposes of the motion to compel arbitration, but wished to retain the right to prove to the arbitrator that the allegation is false. (Id., at p. 71.) As the Barsegian court explained, “[t]hat is not how judicial admissions operate.” (Id., citing Barsegian v. Kessler & Kessler (2013) 215 Cal.App.4th 446, 453.) In Watson, moving party had already denied the agency allegations via its answer to the complaint. (Id.)

Here, Defendant has not yet filed an answer, and it is unclear whether he will or will not admit he is the owner of a condo under the CC&Rs. The Reply seems to suggest that he will so admit, but as counsel for Defendant pointed out in the responses to objections to evidence, arguments made in memoranda are just that – arguments – not evidence. The insistence on relying on statements made in an unverified complaint suggests gamesmanship when a simple declaration from Defendant could effectively admit the fact.

Defendant has therefore not met his burden to demonstrate the existence of an agreement to arbitrate between the parties.

Even if the Court had found the allegations in the SAC were sufficient to admit the fact that Defendant is an owner, the Motion would still be denied.

3rd Party Litigation Exception

The CAA contains an exception to mandatory arbitration in section 1281.2(c). That statute “addresses the peculiar situation that arises when a controversy also affects claims by or against other parties not bound by the arbitration agreement.” (Cronus Invs., Inc. v. Concierge Servs. (2005) 35 Cal.4th 376, 393.) Under Code of Civil Procedure section 1281.2(c), contractual arbitration “may have to yield if there is an issue of law or fact common to the arbitration and a pending action or proceeding with a third party and there is a possibility of conflicting rulings thereon.” (Mercury Ins. Group v. Superior Court (1998) 19 Cal.4th 332, 348.)

The third-party litigation exception applies when (1) “[a] party to the arbitration agreement is also a party to a pending court action or special proceeding with a third party”; (2) the third-party action “aris[es] out of the same transaction or series of related transactions”; and (3) “there is a possibility of conflicting rulings on a common issue of law or fact.” (Code Civ. Proc., § 1281.2, Page 4 of 5) subd. (c).) If all three of these conditions are satisfied, then section 1281.2(c) grants a trial court discretion to either deny or stay arbitration despite an agreement to arbitrate the dispute. (Laswell v. AG Seal Beach, LLC (2010) 189 Cal.App.4th 1399, 1405.) The court may choose to: (1) “refuse to enforce the arbitration agreement and ... order intervention or joinder of all parties in a single action or special proceeding”; (2) “order intervention or joinder as to all or only certain issues”; (3) “order arbitration among the parties who have agreed to arbitration and stay the pending court action or special proceeding pending the outcome of the arbitration proceeding”; and (4) “stay arbitration pending the outcome of the court action or special proceeding.” (Code Civ. Proc., § 1281.2(c).) The trial court, in selecting the appropriate remedy under section 1281.2(c), has “broad discretion.” (Birl v. Heritage Care, LLC (2009) 172 Cal.App.4th 1313, 1322.)

Here, there is no question that Plaintiff’s claims against the co-defendants arise out of the same series of related transactions and that given the commonality of the issues presented in the SAC, “[a] myriad of conflicting rulings is possible.” (Id., at p. 1321.) For these reasons even if Defendant had met his burden to demonstrate the existence of an agreement to arbitrate between the parties, the Court would elect to refuse to enforce the agreement under section 1281.2.

The motion is denied.

All parties must comply with Marin County Superior Court Local Rules, Rule 2.10(B) to contest the tentative decision. vs.

DEFENDANT: C.D.C.R. ET AL.

NATURE OF PROCEEDINGS: 1) MOTION – OTHER: TO SUBMIT DEMURRER
2) MOTION – OTHER: TO OPPOSITION AND OBJECTION
3) DEMURRER

RULING

The unopposed demurrer of Defendants California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (“CDCR”) and “Ron Bloomfield” (collectively “Defendants”) to the second amended complaint of Plaintiff Gregory Smith (“Plaintiff”) is SUSTAINED without leave to amend.

Discussion

This is the third time this case has been before the Court on demurrer. At the last hearing on April 21, 2026, the Court sustained Defendants’ demurrer to the first amended complaint. As part of that ruling, the Court notified Plaintiff that he had one final opportunity to cure the defects in his complaint by amendment. On May 29, 2026, Plaintiff filed his second amended complaint.

Plaintiff is an inmate at San Quentin State Prison. Based on his statements, he is apparently bringing an action for damages alleging he was injured when he slipped on grease on the floor of the prison kitchen. His second amended complaint, however, is once again defective because it contains no factual allegations. Instead, Plaintiff has filed a form complaint that simply asserts causes of action for “contractual liability [sic]”, general negligence, and for an unspecified intentional tort. Plaintiff “CDCR, et al” as the Defendants.

Defendants filed their latest demurrer on June 29, 2026. Although Plaintiff filed an untimely opposition to the previous demurrer, he has not filed a response or opposition to the present demurrer. The failure of a party to oppose a demurrer may be construed as having abandoned the claims. (Herzberg v. County of Plumas (2005) 133 Cal.App.4th 1, 20.) Thus, the failure to oppose is treated as consent to the granting the motion. (Calif. Rules of Court, rule 8.54(c); Civ. Local Rule 2.8G.1.) Defendants' demurrer is sustained on this basis.

Moreover, as set forth in the Court's prior orders sustaining the previous demurrer, public entities are not liable for injuries suffered by prisoners. (Gov. Code, § 884.6; Towery v. State of California (2017) 14 Cal.App.5th 226, 231.) Plaintiff's second amended complaint does not contain any allegations that could demonstrate liability on the behalf of the CDCR or any individual and therefore fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. (Code Civ. Proc., § 430.10.)

Plaintiff is a self-represented inmate and has been provided with multiple opportunities to correct his pleadings. Indeed, at the last case management conference, the Court specifically informed Plaintiff that he needed to cure the defects in his pleading by amendment and that failure to do so would result in dismissal of the action.

Courts have consistently held that self-represented parties must comply with all rules that would apply to represented parties, including pleading requirements in demurrer proceedings. (See Barton v. New United Motor Manufacturing, Inc. (1996) 43 Cal.App.4th 1200, 1210.) Plaintiff has failed to cure the defects of his prior complaint. The demurrer is therefore sustained without further leave to amend.

All parties must comply with Marin County Superior Court Local Rules, Rule 2.10(B) to contest the tentative decision. Parties who request oral argument are required to appear in person or remotely by ZOOM. Regardless of whether a party requests oral argument in accordance with Rule 2.10(B), the prevailing party shall prepare an order consistent with the announced ruling as required by Marin County Superior Court Local Rules, Rule 2.11.
