

behalf of Reynolds Law LLP creates an attorney-client relationship between Plaintiffs and other attorneys with Reynolds Law LLP, specifically Defendant.

California courts have consistently answered that question in the affirmative. “Unless there is an agreement to the contrary, the retention of an attorney in a law firm constitutes the retention of the entire firm. (Streit v. Covington & Crowe (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 441, 445, 98 Cal.Rptr.2d 193 [‘by retaining a single attorney, a client establishes an attorney-client relationship with any attorney who is a partner of or is employed by the retained attorney’]; see Rest.3d Law Governing Lawyers, § 14, com. h, p. 132 [‘Many lawyers practice as partners, members, or associates of law firms [citation]. When a client retains a lawyer with such an affiliation, the lawyer’s firm assumes the authority and responsibility of representing that client, unless the circumstances indicate otherwise’]; 1 Mallen & Smith, Legal Malpractice, supra, Vicarious Liability, § 5.3 at p. 546 [‘Unless there is a specific agreement to the contrary, the retention of one partner of a law firm is a retention of the entire firm, so that any attorney in the firm may perform services’]; 1 Vapnek et al., Cal. Practice Guide: Professional Responsibility (The Rutter Group 2006) ¶¶ 3:19, pp. 3–5 to 3–6 [‘Where a client retains a law firm ... the client’s relationship extends to all members of the firm or organization’]; see also Blackmon v. Hale, supra, 1 Cal.3d at p. 558, 83 Cal.Rptr. 194, 463 P.2d 418 [‘Although the [law] firm’s records indicate that [the partners] regarded plaintiff as a client of [one partner] only, there is no evidence whatever that [the partners] ever informed plaintiff that [the partner] was not representing plaintiff as a member of the firm’].)” (PCO, Inc. v. Christensen, Miller, Fink, Jacobs, Glaser, Weil & Shapiro, LLP (2007) 150 Cal.App.4th 384, 392.)

Based on the foregoing, the motion is DENIED.
