

		owed does not constitute conversion.” (Kim v. Westmoore Partners, Inc. (2011) 201 Cal.App.4th 267, 284.) Similarly, “a mere contractual right of payment, without more, will not suffice.” (Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Zerlin (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 445, 452.) Rather, “[a] cause of action for conversion of money can be stated only where a defendant interferes with the plaintiff’s possessory interest in a specific, identifiable sum, such as when a trustee or agent misappropriates the money entrusted to him.” (Kim v. Westmoore Partners, Inc. (2011) 201 Cal.App.4th 267, 284.) Here, Cross-Complainant alleges that “Indigo wrongfully retained funds that were earmarked for legitimate golf course operations but instead applied them to unauthorized accounts or duplicate payroll.” (FACC, ¶ 27.) Cross-Complainant further alleges that “Indigo exercised dominion and control over JP’s funds in a manner inconsistent with JP’s rights, causing damages.” (FACC, ¶ 28.) Based on these allegations, the demurrer to the sixth cause of action for conversion is OVERRULED. Cross-Defendant shall file an answer to the FACC within 20 days of notice of this ruling. Cross-Complainant to give notice. Case Management Conference
