

11	25-01514243 Parker vs. AMPCO Contracting Inc.	Motion to Compel Arbitration Defendants AMPCO Contracting Inc. (“AMPCO”) and KML Services, Inc.’s (“KML”) motion to compel plaintiff Felix Parker to submit his claims against Defendants to binding arbitration; and to stay the action pending completion of the arbitration is GRANTED. Defendants move to compel arbitration pursuant to the Federal Arbitration Act (9 U.S.C. § 1, et seq.) and Code of Civil Procedure Sections 1280 et seq. Federal Arbitration Act (“FAA”): The FAA “applies where there is ‘a contract evidencing a transaction involving commerce.’” (Allied-Bruce Terminix Companies, Inc. v. Dobson (1995) 513 U.S. 265, 277 [quoting 9 USC § 2] [emphasis in original].) Here, the agreement to arbitrate submitted by Defendants expressly states, “[t]his Agreement is entered into under the Federal Arbitration Act, and shall be interpreted and construed in accordance with the law and procedures developed under that statute. (Vitta Decl., Ex. A, Section 8.) Therefore, the FAA applies. A court’s role in considering a petition to compel arbitration under the FAA is limited to “determining (1) whether a valid agreement to arbitrate exists and, if it does, (2) whether the agreement encompasses the dispute at issue. If the response is affirmative on both counts, then the Act requires the court to enforce the arbitration agreement in accordance with its terms.” (Chiron Corp. v. Ortho Diagnostic Sys. Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 207 F.3d 1126, 1130.) “In determining the rights of parties to enforce an arbitration agreement within the FAA’s scope, courts apply state contract law while giving due regard to the federal policy favoring arbitration.” (Pinnacle Museum Tower Assn. v. Pinnacle Market Development (US), LLC (2012) 55 Cal.4th 223, 236 (Pinnacle)). “The party seeking arbitration bears the burden of proving the existence of an arbitration agreement, and the party opposing arbitration bears the burden of proving any defense, such as unconscionability.” (Ibid.) Existence of an agreement to arbitrate which encompasses the claims at issue: Plaintiff entered into an Arbitration Agreement (“Agreement”) with defendant KML on February 4, 2025. (Vitta Decl., Ex. A.) The Agreement provides that: “Any and all claims or controversies arising out of Employee’s application or candidacy for employment, employment, or cessation of employment with the Company shall be resolved through final and binding arbitration pursuant to the Employment Arbitration Rules of the American Arbitration Association (‘AAA’) in existence as of the time the dispute arises. (Vitta Decl., Ex. A, Section 1.) Plaintiff does not dispute signing the Agreement. Therefore, defendant KML has sufficiently shown the existence of an agreement to arbitrate.

The Complaint alleges wage and hour violations. The Agreement requires arbitration of all claims arising out of Plaintiff's employment. Therefore, the Agreement also covers the claims alleged in the Complaint.

Enforcement by Non-Signatory:

"[T]here are six theories by which a nonsignatory may be bound to arbitrate: '(a) incorporation by reference; (b) assumption; (c) agency; (d) veil-piercing or alter ego; (e) estoppel; and (f) third-party beneficiary' [citation]." (Suh v. Superior Ct. (2010) 181 Cal. App. 4th 1504, 1513.)

AMPCO is not a signatory to the Agreement but moves to compel arbitration under the doctrine of equitable estoppel.

"Under this [equitable estoppel] exception, 'a nonsignatory defendant may invoke an arbitration clause to compel a signatory plaintiff to arbitrate its claim when the causes of action against the nonsignatory are 'intimately founded in and intertwined with' the underlying contract obligations.' [Citation.]" The doctrine applies where the claims are ' "based on the same facts and are inherently inseparable' " from the arbitrable claims against signatory defendants.' [Citation.]" (Garcia v. Pexco, LLC (2017) 11 Cal.App.5th 782, 786 (Garcia); see also Gonzalez v. Nowhere Beverly Hills LLC (2024) 107 Cal.App.5th 111 (Gonzalez).)

Here, the Complaint alleges that "Defendants, and each of them, were the agents, employees, managing agents, supervisors, co-conspirators, parent corporation, joint employers, alter ego, and/or joint ventures of the other Defendants, and each of them, and in doing the things alleged herein, were acting at least in part within the course and scope of said agency, employment, conspiracy, joint employer, alter ego status, and/or joint venture and with the permission and consent of each of the other Defendants." (Complaint, ¶ 3.) Further, the Complaint does not allege that each Defendant separately employed Plaintiff at various times, rather the Complaint alleges that they collectively employed her at all relevant times alleged in the Complaint. Moreover, Plaintiff brings the same claims against both KML and AMPCO defendants, based on the same allegations, all of which arise out of Plaintiff's employment, which is covered under the arbitration agreement.

AMPCO argues that it can enforce the arbitration clause under the doctrine of equitable estoppel because Plaintiff's claims against AMPCO arise entirely from the same employment relationship and alleged conduct underlying his claims against KML. Here, Plaintiff alleges AMPCO and KML were his joint employers, and since the arbitration agreement controls Plaintiff's employment, he is equitably estopped from refusing to arbitrate his claims with AMPCO. (Garcia, supra, 11 Cal.App.5th at p. 788.) Therefore, AMPCO may enforce the Agreement under the doctrine of equitable estoppel.

Further, nonsignatory AMPCO may invoke the arbitration agreement under the doctrine of agency. "[A] plaintiff's allegation of an agency relationship among defendants is sufficient to allow the alleged agents to invoke the benefit of an arbitration agreement executed by their principal even though the agents are not parties to the agreement. [Citations.] Moreover, it would be unfair to defendants to allow John to invoke agency principles when it is to his advantage to do so, but to disavow those same principles when it is not.” (Thomas v. Westlake (2012) 204 Cal.App.4th 605, 614-615.) Here, the Complaint alleges “Defendants, and each of them, were the agents . . . of the other Defendants . . .” (Complaint, ¶ 3.)

Therefore, AMPCO may enforce the Agreement under both equitable estoppel and agency.

Defenses to the Arbitration Agreement:

Plaintiff argues the Agreement is unconscionable. Procedural and substantive unconscionability “must both be present in order for a court to exercise its discretion to refuse to enforce a contract or clause under the doctrine of unconscionability.” (Armendariz v. Foundation Health Psychcare Servs., Inc. (2000) 24 Cal.4th 83, 114.) However, they need not be present in the same degree. (Ibid.) A sliding scale approach is used and the more substantively oppressive the contract term, the less evidence of procedural unconscionability is required. (Ibid.)

a. Procedural Unconscionability:

“Procedural unconscionability focuses on the elements of oppression and surprise.” (Serafin v. Balco Properties Ltd., LLC (2015) 235 Cal.App.4th 165, 177.) “Oppression arises from an inequality of bargaining power which results in no real negotiation and an absence of meaningful choice. Surprise involves the extent to which the terms of the bargain are hidden in a prolix printed form drafted by a party in a superior bargaining position.” (Ibid.) “[A] finding of procedural unconscionability does not mean that a contract will not be enforced, but rather that courts will scrutinize the substantive terms of the contract to ensure they are not manifestly unfair or one-sided.” (Baltazar v. Forever 21, Inc. (2016) 62 Cal.4th 1237, 1244 (Baltazar).)

Since the Agreement was offered to Plaintiff on a take-it-or-leave-it basis it is a contract of adhesion. Therefore, there is some minimal degree of procedural unconscionability.

a. Substantive Unconscionability:

“Substantive unconscionability focuses on the actual terms of the agreement and evaluates whether they create ‘overly harsh’ or ‘one-sided’ results.” (Serafin, supra, 235 Cal.App.4th at 177.)

Plaintiff argues that the Agreement contains two substantively unconscionable provisions.

First, Plaintiff argues that paragraph 4 of the Agreement is substantively unconscionable because it strips him of his statutory right under Labor Code 98.2 to appeal to the court. Paragraph 4 provides in pertinent part, “The parties agree that any appeal of an order, decision or award issued by the Labor Commissioner with respect to any such claim, may be made to an arbitrator pursuant to the Expedited Procedures of the AAA Commercial Arbitration Rules, and not to a court of law. The arbitrator empowered to hear any such appeals shall have experience in arbitrating wage and hour claims. The provisions of this Agreement, and not Labor Code section 98.2, shall otherwise apply to any such appeal.” (Vitta Decl., Ex. A, ¶ 4.)

Plaintiff contends the Agreement requires Plaintiff to appeal a decision of the Labor Commissioner to an arbitrator which eliminates Plaintiff’s statutory right under section 98.2 to appeal a Labor Commissioner determination to the Superior Court. However, Plaintiff fails to cite any authority holding that an agreement to arbitrate a section 98.2 appeal renders an arbitration agreement substantively unconscionable. Further, here, not only is Plaintiff not alleging any Section 98.2 claim, but Section 98.4 expressly allows for arbitration of 98.2 claims. Accordingly, the Agreement is not substantively unconscionable on this ground.

Second, Plaintiff argues that paragraph 5 of the Agreement is substantively unconscionable because it contains a blanket waiver of representative and class actions. Paragraph 5 provides: “To the fullest extent permitted by law, the parties agree that they shall not join or consolidate claims submitted for arbitration under this Agreement with those of any other persons, and that no form of class, collective, or representative action shall be maintained without the mutual consent of the parties.” (Vitta Decl., Ex. A, ¶ 5.)

Plaintiff argues the blanket waiver is substantively unconscionable as applied to representative claims available under California law. Defendant does not dispute the unconscionability of the provision as it applies to PAGA claims but contends Plaintiff has not asserted a PAGA claim or any class claims in this action. (Reply, 4:16-17.) Because there is no PAGA claim involved, here, the Court finds that any PAGA waiver would not render the entire agreement unenforceable, because of the severance provision in paragraph 10 of the Agreement. (See Mohamed v. Uber Technologies, Inc. (9th Cir. 2016) 848 F.3d 1201, 1213 [concluding that PAGA waiver in arbitration agreement was invalid under California law but severable from the remainder of the agreement].) “[W]hile a trial court has considerable discretion with respect to severability, the statute contemplates that refusal to enforce an agreement altogether should be limited to situations where the agreement is ‘ “permeated” ’ by unconscionability.” (Farrar v. Direct Com., Inc. (2017) 9 Cal.App.5th 1257, 1274.) To the extent Plaintiff alleges a cause of action seeking restitution under Business and Professions Code section 17200, the Agreement’s waiver language does not prevent Plaintiff from pursuing the claim as alleged.

Accordingly, the Court finds Plaintiff has not shown that the arbitration agreement is unenforceable.

The motion is GRANTED, and the action is stayed, pending the completion of arbitration.

Defendants to give notice.

12	24-01407549 Sandoval vs. General Motors, LLC.	Motion to Set Aside/Vacate Dismissal Plaintiffs’ Christian Sandoval and Alejandro Sandoval’s Motion to Set Aside Dismissal is GRANTED. The dismissal was entered on 12/15/25. Plaintiffs moved to set aside on 12/18/25. Thus, Plaintiff’s motion is timely. Additionally, Plaintiffs’ counsel provides a declaration stating attorney Tim Butler was present and intended to appear at the hearing for this case but had 2 other appearances on the same morning. (Butler Decl., ¶¶3-11.) Thus, relief is mandatory, and the dismissal is set aside. (Code Civ. Proc., § 473, subd. (b).)
14	24-01407549 Vandermeer vs. Bombardier Recreational Products, a corporation	Motion for Summary Judgment and/or Adjudication Defendant BRP US, Inc.’s Motion for Summary Judgment is DENIED. Legal Standard Code of Civil Procedure section 437c(c) states, “(c) The motion for summary judgment shall be granted if all the papers submitted show that there is no triable issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. In determining if the papers show that there is no triable issue as to any material fact, the court shall consider all of the evidence set forth in the papers, except the evidence to which objections have been made and sustained by the court, and all inferences reasonably deducible from the evidence, except summary judgment shall not be granted by the court based on inferences reasonably deducible from the evidence if contradicted by other inferences or evidence that raise a triable issue as to any material fact.” Section 437c(f)(1) provides, “(f)(1) A party may move for summary adjudication as to one or more causes of action within an action, one or more affirmative defenses, one or more claims for damages, or one or more issues of duty, if the party contends that the cause of action has no merit, that there is no affirmative defense to the cause of action, that there is no merit to an affirmative defense as to any cause of action, that there is no merit to a claim for damages, as specified in Section 3294 of the Civil Code, or that one or more defendants either owed or did not owe a duty to the plaintiff or plaintiffs. A motion for summary adjudication shall be granted only if it completely disposes of a cause of action, an affirmative defense, a claim for damages, or an issue of duty.” Section 437c(o)-(p) states: “(o) A cause of action has no merit if either of the following exists: (1) One or more of the elements of the cause of action cannot be separately established, even if that element is separately pleaded. (2) A defendant establishes an affirmative defense to that cause of action. (p) For purposes of motions for summary judgment and summary adjudication:
