

		inequitable result will follow. (Automotriz Del Golfo De California S.A. De C.V. v. Resnick (1957) 47 Cal.2d 792, 796; Leek v. Cooper (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 399, 415.) Defendants argue, but do not show, that the alter-ego allegations are merely conclusory or otherwise subject to being stricken under Code of Civil Procedure section 436. Attachment 9a alleges that Defendants disregarded business formalities, commingled personal and SeaCats funds, used SeaCats' assets to pay personal expenses, inadequately capitalized and depleted SeaCats, and operated it as a shell or conduit for their personal affairs. (FAC, Attachment 9a, ¶ 1.) It further alleges that respecting SeaCats' separate existence would sanction fraud or produce an inequitable result. (Ibid.) These allegations track recognized alter-ego factors and sufficiently plead both unity of interest and an inequitable result. Accordingly, the motion to strike the alter-ego allegations is DENIED. Defendants (ANDRES A. MUNT-LOVELL and NICHOLAS P. MUNT-LOVELL) SHALL answer the First Amended Complaint within 30 days. Plaintiffs to give notice.
