

|           |                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|-----------|---------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 3  | Mugavero vs. Lendward2026-01547162             | Motion to Be Relieved as Counsel of RecordAttorneys Vanya Khanna and Lipeles Law Group, APC's motion to withdraw as counsel of record for plaintiff Chad Mugavero is GRANTED. Moving Parties shall file an amended proposed order with Plaintiff's correct address. The current proposed order contains an error. The order shall become effective upon the filing of the proof of service of the (amended) signed order upon the client. (See Cal. Rules of Court, rule 3.1362.) Moving Parties shall give notice.                                    |
| 5  | Hainan Guanghua Group USA vs. Guo2025-01465422 | Motion to Be Relieved as Counsel of RecordAttorney Mary Liu and Law Office of Mary Liu's motion to be relieved as counsel of record for Qingdao Wodi International Trading Co., Ltd. is GRANTED. Moving counsel shall file an amended proposed order with Responding Party's (client) correct address. The current proposed order contains no address. The order shall become effective upon the filing of the proof of service of the (amended) signed order upon the client. (See Cal. Rules of Court, rule 3.1362.) Attorney Liu shall give notice. |
| 10 | Wang vs. Jan2026-01551895                      | Motion for Order to Stay ProceedingsTrial courts generally have the inherent power to stay proceedings in the interests of justice and to promote judicial efficiency. (CCP 187; Freiberg v. City of Mission Viejo                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |