Tentative Ruling: Cross-Defendant General Motors, LLC's Motions to Compel are granted.

Requests for sanctions is denied.

A party may file a motion compelling further answers to interrogatories, requests for production, and requests for admissions if it finds that the response is inadequate, incomplete, or evasive, or an objection in the response is without merit or too general. (Code Civ. Proc., §§ 2030.300, 2031.310, 2033.290.)

The issue presented is the timeliness of the motions. Unless notice of the motion is given within 45 days of the service of the verified response, or any supplemental verified response, or on or before any specific later date to which the propounding party and the responding party have agreed in writing, the propounding party waives any right to compel a further response. (Id. at §§ 2030.300(c), 2031.310(c), 2033.290(c).) Failure to comply with the discovery deadline “is only ‘jurisdictional’ in the sense that it renders the court without authority to rule on motions to compel other than to deny them.” (Sexton v. Superior Court (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 1403, 1410.)
