Motion: Motion to Compel Arbitration and Stay Proceedings

Tentative Ruling: Defendant's Motion to Compel Arbitration and Stay Proceedings is DENIED.

A written agreement to submit to arbitration, a controversy thereafter arising is valid, enforceable and irrevocable, save upon such grounds as exist for the revocation of any contract. (Code Civ. Proc., § 1281.)□

On petition of a party to an arbitration agreement alleging the existence of a written agreement to arbitrate a controversy and where a party thereto refuses to arbitrate such controversy, the court shall order the petitioner and the respondent to arbitrate if it□determines□an agreement to arbitrate the controversy exists. (Code Civ. Proc., § 1281.2;□Gorlach□v. Sports Club Co.□(2012) 209 Cal. App.4th 1497, 1505 [noting that “when presented with a petition to compel arbitration, the trial court's first task is to determine whether the parties have in fact agreed to arbitrate the dispute”].)□

In deciding a petition to compel arbitration, trial courts must first decide whether an enforceable arbitration agreement exists between the parties and then determine the second gateway issue of whether the claims are covered within the scope of the agreement. (Omar v. Ralphs Grocer Co. (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 955, 961.) The initial burden is on the party petitioning to compel arbitration to prove the existence of the agreement by a preponderance of that evidence. (Villacreses v. Molinari (2005) 132 Cal.App.4th 1223, 1230.)

Once petitioners allege that an arbitration agreement exists, the burden shifts to respondents to prove the falsity of the purported agreement, and no evidence or authentication is required to find the arbitration agreement exists. (Condee v. Longwood Mgt. Corp. (2001) 88 Cal.App.4th 215, 219.)

Petitioner here has submitted no admissible evidence of a valid arbitration agreement. Attached to the motion is what appears to be a screenshot of a webpage for a company named “Lending Club.” The webpage states at the top, “Borrower Agreement,” the “Last updated February 18, 2026.” A portion of the webpage discussing arbitration is highlighted.

There is no foundation establishing the admissibility of this document. Notwithstanding the fact that this document was apparently edited in February 2026, and the complaint alleges a debt that was charged off in 2023, there is no evidence to connect this agreement to the claims underlying this lawsuit. There is nothing signed by the parties. No declaration containing admissible testimony regarding an agreement was filed. Defendant has not presented any evidence that an enforceable arbitration agreement exists between the parties. The Court does not need to go any further in its analysis. The motion is denied.
