[TENTATIVE] ORDER DENYING MOTION TO COMPEL
FURTHER RESPONSES; GRANTING MOTION FOR PROTECTIVE ORDER

Dept. 506

MOTION
TO COMPEL FURTHER RESPONSES

On

July 24, 2024, Defendant/Cross-Complainant Hannah Lynn filed a motion to compel Plaintiff/Cross-Defendant Diamond Art Club LLC's further responses to Requests for Production of Documents, Set Two, Nos. 1-3.

A

party may move to compel a further response to a discovery demand if the demanding party deems that the statement of compliance with the demand is incomplete; the representation of inability to comply is inadequate, incomplete, or evasive; or an objection in the response is without merit or too general. (Code Civ. Proc., §§ 2030.300, subd. (a) [interrogatories], 2031.310, subd. (a) [documents], 2033.290, subd. (a) [admissions].) The motion must set forth specific facts showing good cause justifying the discovery sought by the demand. (Code Civ. Proc., § 2031.310, subd. (b)(1) [documents].)

The

Court agrees with Diamond that "Lynn organized the document in a manner that departs from Department 506's governing procedures and renders the resulting document needlessly unwieldy. . . . Lynn front loads four generalized argument sections, captioned Vagueness and Ambiguity, Undue Burden, Overbreadth and Relevance, and Confidentiality, many pages before the reader ever encounters the specific language of a single Request or Response.” (Joint Statement at pp. 1-2.) This indeed results in an over-long, “disorganized, and is genuinely difficult for the reader, and this Court, to follow in the orderly, request by-request manner that Department 506’s procedures are designed to promote.” (Id. at p. 2.)

the merits, Diamond’s objections of overbreadth and undue burden are sustained. Diamond’s objections that the requests “seek[] the same or substantially similar documents as multiple requests in the Request for Production of Documents, Set One” are also sustained. A party who fails to meet the time limits to compel a further response may not avoid the consequences of that delay and lack of diligence by propounding the same question again. (Professional Career Colleges, Magna Institute, Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 207 Cal.App.3d 490, 494.)

The

motion is DENIED without prejudice to serving a new set of requests that are more narrowly tailored and not duplicative.

MOTION

FOR PROTECTIVE ORDER

On

July 21, 2026, Diamond filed a motion for protective order. Diamond seeks adoption of the Court’s model single-tier “Stipulation and Protective Order – Confidential Designation Only” with two modifications:

(1) a new definition at Paragraph 1.j defining “Self-Represented Party”; and (2) a corresponding access provision at new Paragraphs 7.d and 7.i.

Lynn

argues that Diamond seeks “extraordinary protection,” and “the moving party seeks restrictions extending beyond the Court’s standard model protective order.” (Opposition at pp. 1-3.) Not so. Diamond merely seeks entry of this Court’s model order, an order that is routinely entered. There are no restrictions imposed on Lynn that are not imposed on any other litigant subject to the order.

The

motion is GRANTED. The Court will sign the Proposed Order submitted on July 21, 2026.

Diamond

Art Club LLC is ordered to give notice.

Parties

who intend to submit on this tentative must send an email to the Court at indicating intention to submit. If all parties in the case submit on the tentative ruling, no appearances before the Court are required unless a companion hearing (for example, a Case Management Conference) is also on calendar.

Dated this 20th day of August 2026

Judge of the Superior Court
