Supply & Demand, Inc. v. Anthony Kaye, et al.

Plaintiff propounded

Special Interrogatories, Set One, on Defendant Anthony Kaye ("Defendant"), on March 17, 2026. Defendant served objections only to the requests at issue. The parties met and conferred by telephone, whereby Plaintiff agreed to narrow certain defined terms. Defendant served no supplemental responses. The day the Opposition was due, Defendant served further responses. However, Plaintiff argues in Reply that the following requests remain at issue: Request Nos. 1-5, 21 and 22.

Special Interrogatories Nos. 1-5: Grant. The narrowing of the terms moot Defendant's ambiguity argument, Defendant failed to justify its objections, and Defendant's responses are not Code-complaint. (See CCP section 2030.220(c).)

Special Interrogatory No. 21: Grant. The narrowing of the terms moot Defendant's ambiguity argument. Defendant failed to justify its objections. Defendant has not shown CCP Section 2030.060(f) was violated.

Special

Interrogatory No. 22: Grant. The narrowing of the terms moot Defendant's ambiguity argument. Next, Defendant failed to justify its objections. Defendant has not shown CCP

Section 2030.060(f) was violated. Lastly, the answer is incomplete.

Sanctions

Plaintiff requests

$11,130 in discovery sanctions against Defendant and her counsel. Defendant failed to address the two-month delay in serving supplemental responses and maintained his objections which were not justified. Accordingly, the Court awards $11,130 in sanctions against Defendant only. The Court denies Defendant's request for sanctions.
