Re: In Re: Justin Antonio Kuripeth
Superior Court Case No. 25CECG00041

Hearing Date: August 25, 2026 (Dept. 502)

Motion: Petition to Compromise Minor's Claim

Tentative Ruling:

To take off calendar.

Explanation:

On July 15, 2026, Petitioner's motion to consolidate cases for all purposes for Case Nos. 25CECG00038, 25CECG00039, 25CECG00040, and 25CECG00041, with Case No. 25CECG00038 being designated as the master file was granted. Rules of Court, rule 3.350 (c) requires that after a motion to consolidate has been granted that "for all purposes including trial, any subsequent document must be filed only in the lead case." Petitioner is required to file the petition and all other future documents related to Case No. 25CECG00041 in the master file, which is Case No. 25CECG00038. As the petition was filed in the wrong case after consolidation, the matter is taken off calendar.

Pursuant to California Rules of Court, rule 3.1312(a), and Code of Civil Procedure section 1019.5, subdivision (a), no further written order is necessary. The minute order adopting this tentative ruling will serve as the order of the court and service by the clerk will constitute notice of the order.

Re: In re: Graceson A. Vongsaly
Superior Court Case No. 26CECG00722

Hearing Date: August 25, 2026 (Dept. 502)

Motion: Petition to Compromise Minor's Claim

Tentative Ruling:

To deny, without prejudice, the petition to approve the compromised claim of minor Graceson A. Vongsaly. Petitioner must file an amended petition, with appropriate supporting papers and proposed orders, and obtain a new hearing date for consideration of the amended petition. (Super. Ct. Fresno County, Local Rules, rule 2.8.4.)

Explanation:

The petition must be on form MC-350, verified by the petitioner and include all information having bearing on the reasonableness of the compromise. (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 7.950; Super. Ct. Fresno County, Local Rules, rule 2.8.4.)

The Petition submitted by petitioner seeks approval of the settlement of the personal injury claim of minor Graceson A. Vongsaly ("minor") against Ivanny Ines Garcia Lopez, by and through their insurer, ESIS Insurance. There are issues with the Petition that prevent approval.

Evidence of incurred medical expenses, negotiated reductions, and outstanding balances for medical expenses must be provided to support the corresponding amounts stated in the petition. Counsel declares that the collection agency confirmed that they will accept the $554.18 payment to American Ambulance from counsel in the form of a check. However, the Petition fails to include evidence showing that these outstanding medical expenses have been paid. Documentation showing that the outstanding payment of $554.18 due to American Ambulance has been paid is requested. Otherwise, the petition and proposed orders should reflect that the balance due will be paid from the settlement.

The amount owed to United Financial Casualty Company ("Progressive") is inconsistent between the petition, the supporting documents, and counsel's declaration. A letter from Progressive states that $69.86 is owed for their payment to University Faculty Assoc, Inc. While counsel declares that a representative at University Faculty Assoc confirmed that the balance due was $0, the outstanding $69.86 is actually due to Progressive. As such, documentation showing that the amount owed to Progressive has been paid is requested. Otherwise, the petition and proposed orders should reflect that the balance due will be paid from the settlement.

Due to the aforementioned errors, the total medical expenses, reductions of medical expenses, and the resulting balance of medical expenses appear to be inconsistent between the petition, the attached declaration, and attached documentation. As such, the petition must be corrected at Items 12a and 12b as well as any other amounts affected by the correction(s).

The proposed order (MC-351) must be completed. Items 5, 6b, 8a, 8b, 9, and 10 are incomplete, therefore, the court requests a completed proposed order.

Pursuant to California Rules of Court, rule 3.1312(a), and Code of Civil Procedure section 1019.5, subdivision (a), no further written order is necessary. The minute order adopting this tentative ruling will serve as the order of the court and service by the clerk will constitute notice of the order.

Re: In re: Maya Jefferson
Superior Court Case No. 26CU02209

Hearing Date: August 25, 2026 (Dept. 502)

Motion: Petition to Approve Compromise of Disputed Claim of Minor

Tentative Ruling:

To deny, without prejudice. Petitioner must file an amended petition, with appropriate supporting papers and proposed orders, and obtain a new hearing date for consideration of the amended petition. (Super. Ct. Fresno County, Local Rules, rule 2.8.4.)

Explanation:

Item 1: Petitioner's Standing

Petitioner Matthew Jefferson ("Petitioner") is the minor's father and was appointed her guardian ad litem by court order on July 31, 2026. Although Petitioner received assistance with this petition from the attorney retained by the Respondents' insurance carrier (see Petn., Item 17; Attachments 17d and 17e), Petitioner filed this petition in pro per.

A non-attorney appointed as guardian ad litem cannot act in pro per, as this would constitute the unlawful practice of law. (Bus. & Prof. Code § 6125; J.W. v. Superior Court (1993) 17 Cal.App.4th 958, 965.) A petition brought by a guardian ad litem must be filed by an attorney. However, no guardian ad litem is needed in a minor's compromise when the custodial parent is the petitioner. If the minor's parents live together, either may bring the petition. If the minor's parents are living separate and apart, then the parent having the care, custody, and control of the minor may bring the petition. (Prob. Code, § 3500, subd. (a).)

Here, Petitioner cannot bring this petition as guardian ad litem, and it is unclear from the Petition whether Petitioner is the custodial parent pursuant to the Code section. The medical records also reference "Cayla Jefferson" as the minor's parent. (Petn., PDF p. 24/83.) However, the parties' settlement agreement refers to her as "Cayla Heflebower, not married," separate from the minor's "parent, Matthew Jefferson[.]" (Id., PDF p. 67/83; see also Petn. Attachment 11b(6).) It is not made clear if Cayla¹ is the minor's mother and, if so, whether she lives separate or apart from Mr. Jefferson.

As the father of the claimant acting in pro per, Petitioner must sufficiently explain to the court that either: both parents live together and care for the minor, or, that he is the parent who has care, custody, and control of the minor. Without sufficiently ¹ Due to the association of multiple surnames, Cayla is referred to by first name only and no disrespect is intended.

Re: McGee v. Community Hospitals of Central California, et al.
Superior Court Case No. 25CECG05321

Hearing Date: August 25, 2026 (Dept. 502)

Motion: by Defendants to Compel Arbitration

Tentative Ruling:

To deny without prejudice.

Explanation:

In moving to compel arbitration, defendants must prove by a preponderance of evidence the existence of the arbitration agreement and that the dispute is covered by the agreement. The party opposing the motion must then prove by a preponderance of evidence that a ground for denial of the motion exists (e.g., fraud, unconscionability, etc.) (Rosenthal v. Great Western Fin'l Securities Corp. (1996) 14 Cal.4th 394, 413-414; Hotels Nevada v. L.A. Pacific Ctr., Inc. (2006) 144 Cal.App.4th 754, 758; Villacreses v. Molinari (2005) 132 Cal.App.4th 1223, 1230.)

There is a strong policy in favor of arbitration. (AT&T Mobility LLC v. Concepcion (2011) 563 U.S. 333, 339.) Courts are to enforce arbitration agreements according to their terms. (Ibid.) In ruling on a motion to compel arbitration, the court must first determine whether the parties actually agreed to arbitrate the dispute, and general principles of California contract law guide the court in making this determination. (Mendez v. Mid-Wilshire Health Care Center (2013) 220 Cal.App.4th 534, 540-543.)

"First, the moving party bears the burden of producing 'prima facie evidence of a written agreement to arbitrate the controversy.' The moving party 'can meet its initial burden by attaching to the [motion or] petition a copy of the arbitration agreement purporting to bear the [opposing party's] signature.' Alternatively, the moving party can meet its burden by setting forth the agreement's provisions in the motion. For this step, 'it is not necessary to follow the normal procedures of document authentication.' If the moving party meets its initial prima facie burden and the opposing party does not dispute the existence of the arbitration agreement, then nothing more is required for the moving party to meet its burden of persuasion." (Gamboa v. Northeast Community Clinic (2021) 72 Cal.App.5th 158, 165, citations omitted; see also Condee v. Longwood Management Corp. (2001) 88 Cal.App.4th 215, 218-219.)

"If the moving party meets its initial prima facie burden and the opposing party disputes the agreement, then in the second step, the opposing party bears the burden of producing evidence to challenge the authenticity of the agreement. The opposing party can do this in several ways. For example, the opposing party may testify under oath or declare under penalty of perjury that the party never saw or does not remember seeing the agreement, or that the party never signed or does not remember signing the agreement." (Ibid, citations omitted.)

"If the opposing party meets its burden of producing evidence, then in the third step, the moving party must establish with admissible evidence a valid arbitration agreement between the parties. The burden of proving the agreement by a preponderance of the evidence remains with the moving party." (Id. at pp. 165–166, citation omitted.)

Here, the arbitration agreement in question is a document executed through an electronic system called iCims. This electronic platform was purportedly used by defendants for every prospective employee during the hiring and orientation process. (Warwick Decl., ¶ 2.) The document has a section at the bottom for the employee to electronically sign by providing her name and checking a signature checkbox. (Id. at ¶ 11 and Ex. A thereto.) Below the checkbox reads: "checking the checkbox above is equivalent to a handwritten signature". (Id. at Ex. A.) A red check appears within the checkbox and next to it reads "Signature Angel McGee 4/6/2019 2:24 PM." (Ibid.)

With the moving papers, a declaration was submitted by Mary Warwick, the Director of Talent Acquisition. (Warwick Decl., ¶ 1.)² She has held that position for approximately five years and she manages the team who work with job candidates from the time of application, offer, and onboarding processing. (Id. at ¶¶ 1-2.) She indicates that she manages an electronic system called iCims, which is used during the hiring and orientation process. She indicates that all prospective employees are required to fill out an online application through iCims in order to be considered for employment. (Id. at ¶ 4.) Ms. Warwick indicates that new hire documents, including the Dispute Resolution Agreement, are presented to and electronically signed by prospective employees prior to the commencement of employment. (Id. at ¶ 2.) She asserts that all prospective employees are invited to create a profile using their email address and a self-selected password. Once the applicant is selected for employment, she is required to use the unique username and password she previously created to fill out the employment application in order to electronically sign employment documents, including arbitration agreements. (Id. at ¶¶ 5-7.) Ms. Warwick attests that the Dispute Resolution Agreement attached to her declaration was signed by plaintiff using her unique username and ² Plaintiff has objected to Ms. Warwick's declaration and the arbitration agreement attached as Exhibit A to the declaration on various grounds, including lack of personal knowledge, lack of foundation, hearsay and lack of authentication. She notes that Ms. Warwick admits that she did not become Director of Talent Acquisition until 2021, which is two years after plaintiff allegedly executed the agreement. Therefore, she contends that Ms. Warwick could not have personal knowledge of whether plaintiff executed the agreement when she was hired. While plaintiff's assertion is correct, Ms. Warwick is still able to testify as to the contents of defendant's electronic records, which purportedly includes the arbitration agreement, as a custodian of records under the business records exception to the hearsay rule. The court also agrees with defendants that Ms. Warwick has properly laid foundation to authenticate the document as a business record of defendant. However, for reasons explained below, Ms. Warwick has not properly authenticated that the signature appearing on the agreement was an act of plaintiff. Therefore, plaintiff's objections to Ms. Warwick's attestations regarding the electronic signature, Objection Nos. 1-3, are sustained, and the objections to the agreement attached as Exhibit A, Objection Nos. 4-6 are overruled.

password and that the agreement was pulled from electronic records maintained by defendants in its ordinary course of business. (Id. at ¶¶ 10-11 and Ex. A thereto.) She also indicates that the electronic signature on the agreement could have only been placed by using plaintiff's unique username and password. (Id. at ¶ 11.)

Plaintiff has provided her own declaration with the opposition. She asserts that she does not recognize the arbitration agreement, does not recall seeing the agreement, and does not recall signing or executing the agreement. (McGee Decl., ¶¶ 4, 5, 8.) She further attests that if provided with an option to opt-out of the arbitration agreement, she would have exercised that option. (Id. at ¶ 10.)

Here, defendants have met their initial burden of showing that there is an agreement to arbitrate by simply attaching to Ms. Warwick's declaration a copy of the arbitration agreement purporting to bear plaintiff's signature. Plaintiff has "likewise met her burden on the second step by filing an opposing declaration, saying she did not recall the agreement and would not have signed it if she had been aware of it..." (See Gamboa v. Northeast Community Clinic (2021) 72 Cal.App.5th 158, 167.) "In the face of [the plaintiff's] failure to recall signing the [arbitration] agreement, [the defendant] had the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that the electronic signature was authentic." (Id., at pp. 167-168 citing Ruiz v. Moss Bros. Auto Group, Inc. (2014) 232 Cal.App.4th 836, 846 (Ruiz).)

"[A]ny writing must be authenticated before the writing, or secondary evidence of its content, may be received in evidence. [Citations.]" (Ruiz, supra, 232 Cal.App.4th at p. 843, citations omitted.) "Authentication of a writing means (a) the introduction of evidence sufficient to sustain a finding that it is the writing that the proponent of the evidence claims it is or (b) the establishment of such facts by any other means provided by law." (Ibid., italics in original, citations omitted.) "An electronic record or electronic signature is attributable to a person if it was the act of the person. The act of the person may be shown in any manner, including a showing of the efficacy of any security procedure applied to determine the person to which the electronic record or electronic signature was attributable." (Ibid., citing Civ. Code, § 1633.9, subd. (a), italics omitted.)

"In Ruiz, the court denied enforcement of an arbitration agreement purportedly signed electronically by Ruiz, an employee. Ruiz declared that he 'did not recall signing any arbitration agreement,' and if he had been given such an agreement, he would not have signed it. [Citation.] The employer offered a declaration that explained how it disseminated the agreement and how employees electronically executed it, yet 'did not indicate whether or if so how [the employer] ascertained that Ruiz electronically signed, or was the person who electronically signed, ... the 2011 [arbitration] agreement.' [Citation.] Applying the Uniform Electronic Transactions Act (Civ. Code, § 1633.1 et seq.), the Fourth Appellate District held that the employer had not borne its burden of proving that the electronic signature was 'the act of' the employee. [Citation.]" (Ilyere v. Wise Auto Group (2023) 87 Cal.App.5th 747, 756–757 citing Ruiz v. Moss Bros. Auto Group, Inc. (2014) 232 Cal.App.4th 836, 842-845.)

There, the employer provided the declaration of its business manager, who "was 'required to be familiar with the generation and maintenance' of employee personnel records..." and "summarily asserted that Ruiz 'electronically signed' the 2011 agreement

'on or about September 21, 2011,' and that the same agreement was presented to 'all persons who seek or seek to maintain employment' with [the employer]." (Ruiz, supra, 232 Cal.App.4th at p. 839.) The business manager "did not explain how she arrived at that conclusion or inferred Ruiz was the person who electronically signed the 2011 agreement." (Id., at p. 843.) Despite Ruiz's full name and date appearing on the signature and date lines of the 2011 agreement, and that the business manager apparently retrieved the proffered true and correct copy of the 2011 agreement from the employer's personnel records, it was "never explained how Ruiz's printed electronic signature, or the date and time printed next to the signature, came to be placed on the 2011 agreement. More specifically, [the business manager] did not explain how she ascertained that the electronic signature on the 2011 agreement was 'the act of Ruiz'. (Civ. Code, § 1633.9, subd. (a).)" (Id., at pp. 843-844.) The court further found it insufficient that the business manager "explained in her reply declaration that the 2011 agreement was part of an employee acknowledgment form that 'is' presented to all ... employees as part of a series of changes to the company's employee handbook, and each employee is required to log into the company's HR system using his or her 'unique login ID and password,' to review and sign the employee acknowledgment form." (Ibid.)

Here, just as in Ruiz, defendants fail to establish that the electronic signature appearing on the arbitration agreement produced was "the act of plaintiff." No explanation is provided to show how plaintiff's purported electronic signature, or the date printed next to the signature, came to be placed on the subject arbitration agreement. Nor is an explanation presented to show how Ms. Warwick, who was not in her role as the Director of Talent Acquisition at the time the agreement was purportedly signed, ascertained that the electronic signature was that of plaintiff's. Notably, Ms. Warwick does not indicate whether she holds any belief as to whether plaintiff electronically signed the arbitration agreement.

Additionally, she asserts that she manages iCims, but does not explain how she has knowledge of how the electronic platform works. While Ms. Warwick indicates that the processes for the maintenance of user information constitutes confidential business information, there is no explanation of how documents signed in iCims are connected to defendant's electronic and backup records. There is no discussion of any review of the records in relation to iCims. Nor is there any indication that defendants used the iCims system when plaintiff started her employment with defendants. Ms. Warwick merely summarily attests that she oversaw the process of gathering the electronically-signed agreement, that the agreement was pulled from electronic and backup records maintained by defendants, and that plaintiff electronically signed the agreement, but she does not indicate that she verified that the document actually belonged to plaintiff. There is no indication of whether the document was pulled from plaintiff's employment records or personnel file.

Accordingly, Ms. Warwick's declaration provides insufficient information about how the electronic signature was obtained and insufficient information for the basis of the declarant's assertions that the electronic signature was an act of plaintiff. As such, the electronic signature has not been properly authenticated. Thus, defendants have not met their burden of showing the existence of an agreement to arbitrate.

Pursuant to California Rules of Court, rule 3.1312(a), and Code of Civil Procedure section 1019.5, subdivision (a), no further written order is necessary. The minute order adopting this tentative ruling will serve as the order of the court and service by the clerk will constitute notice of the order.

Re: Castellanos v. Rodriguez
Superior Court Case No. 24CECG02242

Hearing Date: August 25, 2026 (Dept. 502)

Motion: (1) by Defendant to Set Aside Default
(2) by Plaintiffs for Default Judgment

Tentative Ruling:

To take Defendant Francisco Rodriguez' motion to set aside default off calendar, as no moving papers have been filed as directed in the court's July 9, 2026 order following the voiding of defendant's moving papers filed June 23, 2026.

To deny Plaintiffs' Request for Default Judgment, without prejudice.

Explanation:

Plaintiffs Avelino Castellanos and Martha Castellanos are seeking default judgment of their complaint alleging causes of action for breach of contract, judicial foreclosure, fraud and deceit, and suppression of fact. Default was entered against defendant Francisco Rodriguez on July 26, 2024. In their Request for Court Judgment, plaintiffs seek a money judgment in the amount of $402,679.48, including $386,665.15 in damages, $435 in costs, and $15,579.33 in attorney fees. Plaintiffs additionally seek to have the court order the judicial foreclosure sale of property owned by defendant securing a promissory note.

"A judicial foreclosure is a court proceeding, usually brought by the trustee or beneficiary against the trustor and all parties with recorded interests in the property. (§ 726; Diamond Benefits Life Ins. Co. v. Troll (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 1, 6, 77 Cal.Rptr.2d 581 (Diamond))" (Robin v. Crowell (2020) 55 Cal.App.5th 727, 743, emphasis added.)

The complaint should allege the following:

- (1) The obligation, e.g., the execution of a promissory note, usually pleaded verbatim. (See supra, § 576.)
- (2) The security: execution of the mortgage or deed of trust to secure the obligation, and its recordation (which establishes priority over subsequent liens). (See infra, § 674.)
- (3) Plaintiff's ownership of the note and mortgage, and if plaintiff is a transferee and not the original payee or mortgagee, an allegation of assignment to plaintiff. (See infra, § 674.)
- (4) The default of defendant mortgagor. (See infra, § 675.)

(5) The interests of defendants other than the mortgagor. (See infra, § 676.)

(6) Attorneys' fees and other expenses. ...

(5 Witkin, Cal. Proc. (6th ed. 2026) Pleading, § 673.)

In the case at bench, it is clear from the face of the complaint that plaintiffs have failed to name all persons having an interest in the property as defendants. Plaintiffs allege defendant's wife has an interest in the property and she is not named as a defendant. There are no allegations regarding other recorded interests on the property other than plaintiffs' interest created by the deed of trust. As such, the cause of action is insufficiently pleaded and no judgment of judicial foreclosure can properly be entered. (See, Rose v. Lawton (1963) 215 Cal.App.2d 18, 19-20; Williams v. Foss (1924) 69 Cal. App. 705, 707-708.)

Further, in seeking a judgment in their favor on their cause of action for judicial foreclosure plaintiffs are asserting priority over all other recorded interests on the property which likely include a deed of trust securing a mortgage used by defendant and his wife to purchase the property. Plaintiffs have provided no authority to allow the sale of the property by a party that is likely a junior lienholder without notice and to the detriment of a senior lienholder.

To the extent plaintiffs are also seeking a money judgment in connection with the alleged breach of contract, damages in the amount of $386,665.15 are not supported by a ledger or other accounting evidence showing payments made and the balance due. The balance is not consistent with the declaration of Avelino Castellanos attesting to a payment of $26,345.91 toward the principal amount of $400,000 owed pursuant to the Settlement Agreement.

Plaintiffs request attorney fees in the amount of $15,579.33 billed by attorneys of records for plaintiffs incurred in the prosecution of this action. (Cowin Decl., ¶¶ 2-4.) Attorney fees upon default judgment are calculated using Appendix A1 of the Fresno County Superior Court Local Rules. The fees sought exceed those allowed under the Local Rules.

Pursuant to California Rules of Court, rule 3.1312(a), and Code of Civil Procedure section 1019.5, subdivision (a), no further written order is necessary. The minute order adopting this tentative ruling will serve as the order of the court and service by the clerk will constitute notice of the order.

Tentative Ruling

Re: Martinez-Arias v. Del Carmen Martinez et al.
Superior Court Case No. 26CECG01031

Hearing Date: August 25, 2026 (Dept. 502)

Motion: By Defendant Guadalupe Del Carmen Martinez for Stay

Tentative Ruling:

To grant and stay all proceedings, pending final disposition of Fresno Superior Court Case No. F24908581.

To set a status conference for Tuesday, December 1, 2026, 3:30 p.m. in Department 502.

Explanation:

An application for a stay is addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court. (Thomson v. Continental Ins. Co. (1967) 66 Cal.2d 738, 746.) An order staying an action until determination of criminal charges allows plaintiff to prepare his or her action "while alleviating [defendant's] difficult choice between defending either the civil or criminal case." (See Pacers, Inc. v. Superior Court (1984) 162 Cal.App.3d 686, 690.) The requesting party is generally entitled to a stay in the civil action until disposition of the criminal matter. (See id.)

Here, defendant Guadalupe Del Carmen Martinez ("Defendant") requests a stay of proceedings. The basis upon which he seeks this relief is due to a parallel criminal proceeding, arising from the same circumstances and among the same parties as the present civil matter.

Plaintiff Jacqueline Martinez-Arias ("Plaintiff") opposes purely on sufficiency of evidence. Material to this motion, Plaintiff submits that none of the discovery submitted has sufficient foundation. Plaintiff's Objections, No. 2, 3, and 6 are sustained as to foundation. Objections to the memorandum, which are not evidence, are overruled, at No. 1, 7, and 8. Objections as to the declaration of Scott Levy are overruled, at No. 4 and 5.

Scott Levy submits that he is counsel of record for Defendant in the related criminal matter. He indicates an expectation that the criminal matter may resolve in the next six months. He indicates that if the civil matter proceeds, it will affect Defendant's ability to receive a fair trial. Based on the above, the court finds sufficient basis to conclude that Defendant's Fifth Amendment rights as to the criminal matter are implicated in further participating in the present civil matter.
