Quinn Emanuel Urquhart & Sullivan, LLP, et al., Los Angeles County Superior Court case number 26STCV16707, set for hearing on July 27, 2026. The motion is unopposed. The motion is granted.

Legal Standard

Pursuant to California Rule of Court, rule 2.550(d), the court may order that a record be sealed if it finds facts that establish the following: (1) There exists an overriding interest that overcomes the right of public access to the record; (2) The overriding interest supports sealing the record; (3) A substantial probability exists that the overriding interest will be prejudiced if the record is not sealed; (4) The proposed sealing is narrowly tailored; and (5) No less restrictive means exist to achieve the overriding interest.

A "reasoned decision about sealing or unsealing records cannot be made without . . . (1) identifying the specific information claimed to be entitled to such treatment; (2) identifying the nature of the harm threatened by disclosure; and (3) identifying and accounting for countervailing considerations. The burden of presenting information sufficient to accomplish the first two steps is logically placed on the party seeking the sealing of the documents, who is presumptively in the best position to know what disclosures will harm and how.” (H.B. Fuller Co. v. Doe (2007) 151 Cal.App.4th 879, 894.) The burden of showing there are less restrictive means of achieving the overriding interest lies with one who is seeking disclosure of the allegedly confidential information. (NBC Subsidiary (KNBC-TV), Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 Cal.4th 1178, 1224.)

Discussion

Plaintiff has met all the requirements for sealing under rule 2.550(d). First, Plaintiff demonstrates that there is an overriding interest in sealing the relevant records because of the existence of a confidentiality agreement between the parties. Second, he argues that this interest supports sealing the records because Defendants would suffer financial hardship if they were released. Third, Plaintiff argues that Defendant will suffer prejudice if the opposition brief remains unsealed. Fourth, Plaintiff contends that the proposed sealing is narrowly tailored, and Defendants have not offered any alternative means of achieving the same result. Accordingly, Plaintiff’s motion is granted.

Conclusion:

The Court grants
the motion.
