Case Number: 23STCV22115 Hearing Date: September 17, 2026 Dept: 517

The Court is denying the motion of Defendants City of Los Angeles and Alexander Alvarez for a new trial, which was based on the ground that the jury's compensatory damage awards to Plaintiff Pablo Vera on its verdict for him and against the City and Alvarez were excessive and not rooted in the evidence at trial and caselaw. The Court is, however, granting the motion's alternative request for a conditional new trial on the issue of compensation for Vera's past economic losses unless Vera accepts a remittitur that reduces from the $42,000 that the jury awarded to $20,000, which is the maximum amount of Vera's past economic losses that the Court has concluded is supported by the evidence adduced at trial. The Court is declining to grant a conditional new trial on the jury's compensatory damages awards for Vera's future economic losses, past noneconomic losses, and future noneconomic losses.

The Court will explain the basis for its ruling at the hearing on the motion
