Tentative Ruling

Re: Cortez v. Medhat Kamal Mahmoud Produce, et al.
Superior Court Case No. 21CECG03035

Hearing Date: August 12, 2026 (Dept. 501)

Motion: by Plaintiff to Set Aside Dismissal

Tentative Ruling:

To grant the motion and set aside the dismissal of this action entered on March 25, 2026. (Code Civ. Proc. § 473, subd. (b).)

To set a case management conference on Thursday, September 17, 2026 at 3:00 p.m. in Department 97E.

Explanation:

"The court may, upon any terms as may be just, relieve a party or his or her legal representative from a judgment, dismissal, order, or other proceeding taken against him or her through his or her mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect." (Code Civ. Proc. § 473, subd. (b).) Relief can be based either on an "attorney affidavit of fault," in which event, relief is mandatory; or declarations or other evidence showing 'mistake, inadvertence, surprise or 'excusable neglect,' in which event relief is discretionary.

Where an "attorney affidavit of fault" is filed, there is no requirement that the attorney's mistake, inadvertence, etc. be excusable. Relief must be granted even where the default resulted from inexcusable neglect by defendant's attorney. (Standard Microsystems Corp. v. Winbond Electronics Corp. (2009) 179 Cal.App.4th 868, 897.)

In the present case, as required under Code of Civil Procedure section 473(b), Mr. Krell filed a declaration admitting the failure to appear at the March 25, 2026 Order to Show Cause due to his failure to properly calendar the hearing. (Krell Decl., ¶¶ 4-5.) Accordingly, the error falls within the mandatory relief prong of Code of Civil Procedure section 473(b). The motion is granted.

Pursuant to California Rules of Court, rule 3.1312(a), and Code of Civil Procedure section 1019.5, subdivision (a), no further written order is necessary. The minute order adopting this tentative ruling will serve as the order of the court and service by the clerk will constitute notice of the order.

Tentative Ruling

Re: PBT Insurance Services, LLC v. Lee, et al.
Superior Court Case No. 24CECG00250

Hearing Date: August 12, 2026 (Dept. 501)

Motion: by Defendants for Summary Judgment, or in the Alternative, for Summary Adjudication

Tentative Ruling:

To deny the motion for summary judgment. To grant the motion for summary adjudication for the eighth cause of action, and deny as to the first through seventh causes of action.

Explanation:

“Summary judgment is granted when there is no triable issue as to any material fact and the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.” (Lopez v. Superior Court (1996) 45 Cal.App.4th 705, 713, quoting Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(c).) Summary judgment is properly directed toward the entire complaint and not portions thereof. (See Barnick v. Longs Drug Stores, Inc. (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 377, 384; Khan v. Shiley, Inc. (1990) 217 Cal.App.3d 848, 858-859.)

Summary adjudication is the proper mechanism for challenging a particular, “cause of action, an affirmative defense, a claim for punitive damages, or an issue of duty.” (Paramount Petroleum Corp. v. Superior Court (2014) 227 Cal.App.4th 226, 242.) However, “[a] motion for summary adjudication shall be granted only if it completely disposes of a cause of action, an affirmative defense, a claim for damages, or an issue of duty.” (Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(f)(1); see also Catalano v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 91, 97 [piecemeal adjudication prohibited].)

The ultimate burden of persuasion rests on defendant, as the moving party. The initial burden of production is on defendant to show by a preponderance of the evidence, that it is more likely than not that a given element cannot be established or that a given defense can be established. (Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 Cal.4th 826, 850.)

If defendant carries this initial burden of production, the burden of production shifts to plaintiff to show that a triable issue of material fact exists. Plaintiff does this if he can show, by a preponderance of the evidence, that it is more likely than not that a given element can be established or that a given defense cannot be established. (Aguilar, supra, 25 Cal.4th at pp. 850, 852.)

“In moving for summary judgment, “[t]he defendant may ... present evidence that the plaintiff does not possess, and cannot reasonably obtain, needed evidence—as through admissions by the plaintiff following extensive discovery to the effect that he has discovered nothing.” (Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 Cal.4th 826, 855.) If plaintiffs respond to comprehensive interrogatories seeking all known facts with boilerplate answers that restate their allegations, or simply provide laundry lists of people and/or documents, the burden of production will almost certainly be shifted to them once defendants move for summary judgment and properly present plaintiffs’ factually devoid discovery responses.”

(Andrews v. Foster Wheeler LLC (2006) 138 Cal.App.4th 96, 106-07.)

It is not enough for a defendant to show merely that a plaintiff ‘has no evidence’ on a key element of plaintiff’s claim. The defendant must also produce evidence showing the plaintiff cannot reasonably obtain evidence to support that claim. (Aguilar, supra, 25 Cal.4th at pp. 854-855; Gaggero v. Yura (2003) 108 Cal.App.4th 884, 891.)

Here, defendants Dennis Lee, Jennifer Gadams, and Aaron Lee move for summary judgment or in the alternative, for summary adjudication of each cause of action.

Intentional and Negligent Misrepresentation

Defendants assert that plaintiff cannot establish that defendants made a false representation by indicating that Dennis¹ planned to retire following the sale of the assets of Dennis Lee Insurance Services, Inc. (“DLIS”), and concealing his intent to continue operating an insurance business. Defendants argue that plaintiff cannot identify any specific false statement made by defendants concerning the future business activities of DLIS. However, defendants have not met its burden in providing any evidence to support this contention. Nor have defendants shown whether plaintiffs are able to reasonably obtain such evidence.

Next, defendants challenge the reliance element by providing evidence indicating that plaintiff was aware that Dennis would continue to service one client, who was unwilling to change brokers at the time the Agreement for Purchase and Sale of Assets of DLIS was executed. (UMF 15.) Defendant argues that this knowledge defeats plaintiff’s fraud causes of action, because the alleged misrepresentation was known to plaintiff. However, evidence indicating that plaintiff was aware of Dennis’ intent to service one client does not suggest that plaintiff was otherwise aware that Dennis would continue to operate a full-scale insurance business servicing other clients, including their own. Accordingly, defendants have not met their burden in showing that there is no triable issue of material fact as to the fraud causes of action. Therefore, the motion for summary adjudication as to first and second causes of action is denied.

Breach of Contract

¹ Defendant Dennis Lee is referred to by his first name in this ruling for clarity, because he and defendant Aaron Lee share the same last name. No disrespect is intended.

Defendants contend that plaintiff has no evidence establishing Dennis' breach of the subject agreement, because the contract only prohibited solicitation by Dennis Lee. Regardless of the language of the contract, defendants have failed to address the question of whether plaintiff cannot reasonably obtain evidence to support plaintiff's claim of defendant's breach. As such, defendant has not met its initial burden of production in moving for summary adjudication. Therefore, the motion is denied as to the third cause of action.

Breach of Implied Covenant of Quiet Enjoyment

Defendants argue that plaintiff cannot prove substantial interference of the leased premises to support its breach of implied covenant of quiet enjoyment cause of action. Defendants indicate that all parties were aware that Dennis continued to occupy portions of the premises not included within the lease agreement, i.e., the garage and a storage area. (UMF Nos. 21-23.) Evidence is provided showing that after being instructed to provide 24-hours' notice prior to entering the property, Dennis complied and thereafter stopped entering the property without notice. (UMF 24.) Defendants also present evidence suggesting that plaintiff was not prohibited from placing its company logo on the property, only that Dennis was unwilling to remove his existing logo. (UMF 26.) Defendants further argue that directing mail to the subject property does not constitute substantial interference, because Dennis was occupying the garage and storage area. Defendants have not shown the absence of a triable issue of material fact, and rather have only presented evidence suggesting that there may be a triable issue as to the substantial interference element. Therefore, the motion for summary adjudication as to the fourth cause of action is denied.

Intentional Interference with Contractual Relations and Prospective Advantage

Defendants contend that plaintiff has no evidence to support these causes of action and argues that plaintiff relies only on speculation. Defendants provide little support more than their own speculations to establish that plaintiffs have no evidence. Further, defendants have again failed to address whether plaintiff can reasonably obtain evidence to support these causes of action. Therefore, the motion for summary adjudication as to the fifth and sixth causes of action is denied.

Conversion

It is undisputed that Dennis owned the computer systems alleged to have been removed from the leased premises. (UMF 4.) The parties agree that the subject property of the conversion claim is the information allegedly contained within them. Defendants argue that plaintiff cannot prove substantial interference of the electronic information, because Robert Twidwell, co-owner of plaintiff, has testified that he already has all of the information on his email. (UMF 38.) Whether taking electronic information when the owner has a copy of that electronic information constitutes as substantial interference to support conversion is a triable issue of material fact. Therefore, the motion for summary adjudication as to the seventh cause of action is denied.

Tentative Ruling

Re: Jackson v. Mananian, et al.
Superior Court Case No. 25CECG02600

Hearing Date: August 12, 2026 (Dept. 501)

Motion: by defendant Allstate Northbrook Indemnity Company
Demurring to the First Amended Complaint

Tentative Ruling:

To sustain, with leave to amend, the demurrer to the entirety of the operative complaint, the First Amended Complaint, for uncertainty and failure to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. . (Code Civ. Proc., § 430.10, subds. (e), (f).)

Explanation:

Defendant Allstate Northbrook Indemnity Company ("Allstate") demurs to the entirety of the First Amended Complaint ("FAC") on the ground that the complaint fails to state a cause of action, and is uncertain.

While plaintiff may and does utilize the Judicial Council form complaint, the usage of the form does not change the statutory requirement that the complaint contain “facts constituting the cause of action.” (Code Civ. Proc., § 425.10, subd. (a)(1).)

Indeed, the complaint is uncertain and fails to allege facts sufficient to state a cause of action, as it is completely devoid of any facts to apprise defendant of the issues it is being asked to defend against. Since the FAC is devoid of any allegations against Allstate, it is unknown what injury plaintiff has suffered, when the injury occurred, and how Allstate has caused such injury.

The absence of fact in the FAC renders it impossible for the court to determine whether there is a reasonable possibility that the defects may be cured by amendment. An opposition is not filed to give light to this issue. Nonetheless, since the possibility that plaintiff can plead sufficient facts to state a cause of action against Allstate is not foreclosed upon by the lack of allegations or any compelling argument provided by the moving papers, the court intends to grant leave to amend.

Pursuant to California Rules of Court, rule 3.1312(a), and Code of Civil Procedure section 1019.5, subdivision (a), no further written order is necessary. The minute order adopting this tentative ruling will serve as the order of the court and service by the clerk will constitute notice of the order.

Tentative Ruling

Re: Felicia Mesa v. Martin Ruff
Superior Court Case No. 23CECG01769

Hearing Date: August 12, 2026 (Dept. 501)

Motion: By Plaintiff Felicia Mesa for Order to compel Defendant ASM Global Fresno, LLC's Initial Responses Form Interrogatories-General, Set One; Form Interrogatories-Employment Law, Set One; Special Interrogatories, Set One; Requests for Production, Set One; to Deem Requests for Admission, Set One; and Request for Sanctions

Tentative Ruling:

Motion is moot. Defendant ASM Global Fresno, LLC provided responses to the discovery requests.

To grant relief to ASM Global Fresno, LLC's request for waiver of discovery objections.

To deny the request for sanctions.

Explanation:

Plaintiff, Felicia Mesa ("Mesa" or "plaintiff") makes this motion to compel Form Interrogatories-General, Set One; Form Interrogatories-Employment Law, Set One; Special Interrogatories, Set One; Requests for Production, Set One; and Requests for Admission, Set One, from defendant ASM Global Fresno, LLC. ("ASM" or defendant.) Plaintiff further seeks monetary sanctions against ASM and/or its counsel of record in the amount of $9,060.00. Plaintiff propounded all discovery on ASM on April 29, 2025, without response. (Mesa' Moving Papers, pg. 4:25-28.)

At the time that the lawsuit in this matter was filed, defendant's attorney, Steven Kroll was a partner of the law firm Bent Caryl & Kroll, LLP and his email address was skroll@bcklegal.com. On April 4, 2025, Kroll left Bent Caryl & Kroll, LLP to start his own law firm Kroll Law, P.C., with a new email address. Kroll served plaintiff's counsel by mail with a Form MC-040, Notice of Change of Address or Other Contact Information, indicating among other things, his new firm name and mailing address, as well as his new email address (skroll@krollpc.com). After leaving Bent Caryl & Kroll, LLP, Kroll did not have access to his skroll@bcklegal.com email account. (Kroll Decl., ¶¶3-6, Ex. A.)

Service

Kroll argues that Mesa's motion should be denied as ASM was never properly served. (ASM's Opposition Papers, pp. 3:13-4:14.)

Electronic service is authorized with conditions, such as express consent or court order. (Code Civ. Proc. § 1010.6; Cal. Rules of Court, rule 2.251(a).) “A party or other person whose electronic service address changes while the action or proceeding is pending must promptly file a notice of change of address electronically with the court and must serve this notice electronically on all other parties and all other persons required to be served.” (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 2.251(g)(1), emphasis added.)

Here, Kroll declares he informed plaintiff's counsel of this change of contact information through written mail (Kroll Decl., ¶15), rather than electronically informing plaintiff's counsel. Because of Kroll's failure to comply with Rules of Court, rule 2.251(g)(1), where Kroll, admittedly did not electronically notify plaintiff's counsel of his change of his email address, Mesa properly served ASM, electronically.

Motions to Compel

The motion to compel is moot as ASM served complete, verified responses to the five discovery requests that are the subject of Mesa's motion to compel responses to discovery requests. (Kroll Supplemental Decl., ¶13, Ex. B.)

Waiver of Discovery Objections

ASM requests relief from waiving objections with respect to the discovery owed. (ASM's Opposition Papers, pg. 4:15-24.) As mentioned above, ASM served complete, verified responses to the five discovery requests that are the subject of Mesa's motion to compel responses to discovery requests. (Kroll Supplemental Decl., ¶13, Ex. B.)

A responding party can move the court for relief from waiving objections by (1) serving responses in substantial compliance and (2) demonstrating that the failure to serve responses was the result of mistake, inadvertence or excusable neglect. (Code Civ. Proc., §§ 2030.290, subd. (a)(1) and (2); 2031.300, subd. (a)(1) and (2).)

As mentioned above, ASM served complete, verified responses to the five discovery requests that are the subject of Mesa's motion to compel responses to discovery requests. (Kroll Supplemental Decl., ¶13, Ex. B.) Furthermore, Kroll has demonstrated “mistake, inadvertence or excusable neglect.” Kroll provided notice to plaintiff's counsel that he was switching firms, and that his email had changed. He did not receive the requests for discovery where he no longer had access to his old email account.

Accordingly, the Court grants ASM's request for relief from waiving any objections to the discovery requests.

Sanctions

Here, Mesa seeks sanctions in the amount of $9,060.00.

If anyone engages in conduct that is a misuse of the discovery process, the Court may impose reasonable monetary sanctions, “unless it finds that the one subject to the sanction acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the
