CHANG

SOO LEE, AN INDIVIDUAL v. GENERAL MOTORS, LLC

June

8:30

AM

NATURE OF PROCEEDINGS:

PLAINTIFF'S MOTION FOR ATTORNEY FEES, COSTS AND EXPENSES.

RULING:

The Court grants the Motion,

as prayed.

Plaintiff

CHANG SOO LEE is awarded attorneys' fees, costs and expenses, in the total amount of $26,102.00 against Defendant GENERAL MOTORS, LLC.

I.

BACKGROUND

On June 12, 2024, CHANG

SOO LEE (Plaintiff) filed a Lemon Law Complaint against GENERAL MOTORS, LLC. (Defendant).

Plaintiff alleged that his 2021 Chevrolet Express Cargo Van, manufactured by Defendant, suffered from engine, transmission, and other defects that Defendant has been unable to repair within a reasonable number of attempts. Plaintiff further alleged that Defendant knew that the vehicle suffered from the defects yet had refused to repurchase it.

On May 15, 2026, pursuant to the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act, Plaintiff filed a Motion for an order providing for (1) attorneys' fees in the amount of $22,587.50 ($18,787.50 for Benjeman Beck, and $3,800.00 for Misoo Choi), (2) $2,500.00 in reply-related attorneys' fees, and (3) costs and expenses in the amount of $1,014.50, making a total of $26,102.00.

Defendant advocates amount reductions to those reasonably incurred, reasonable hourly rates and denying unrecoverable costs and expenses—i.e., Motion to Enforce Settlement and jury fees).

II.

LEGAL STANDARD

As to Song–Beverly

warranty claims, prevailing buyers have the burden to show that the fees incurred were reasonably necessary to the conduct of the litigation and were reasonable in amounts. (Doppes v. Bentley Motors, Inc. (2009) 174 Cal.App.4th 967, 998 (Doppes).)

“ ‘In challenging

attorney fees as excessive because too many hours of work are claimed, it is the burden of the challenging party to point to the specific items challenged, with a sufficient argument and citations to the evidence. General arguments that fees claimed are excessive, duplicative, or unrelated do not suffice.’ ” (Lunada Biomedical v. Nunez (2014) 230

Cal.App.4th 459, 488. Accord, Etcheson v. FCA US LLC (2018) 30

Cal.App.5th 831, 848.)

“The Song-Beverly Act’s attorney fee provision ““requires the trial court to make an initial determination of the actual time expended; and then to ascertain whether under all the circumstances of the case the amount of actual time expended, and the monetary charge being made for the time expended are reasonable.” (Tidrick

v. FCA US LLC (2025) 112 Cal.App.5th 1147, 1158.) Under the Song-Beverly

Act, the question whether attorneys’ fees were reasonably incurred may depend on circumstances including, “factors such as the complexity of the case and procedural demands, the skill exhibited and the results achieved.” (Goglin

v. BMW of North America, LLC (2016) 4 Cal.App.5th 462, 470. The appellate court reviews awards of attorney fees under Civil Code section 1794, subdivision (d), for abuse of discretion. (Doppes, supra, 174 Cal.App.4th at p. 998.)

Civil Code Section

1794(d) requires a court to base an attorneys’ fee award on actual time expended on the case, and reasonably incurred, as to time spent, and amount, under all circumstances including complexity of the case, procedural demands, skill exhibited, and results achieved. (McKenzie v. Ford Motor Co.

(2015) 238 Cal.App.4th 695, 698, 703.) “The ‘plain wording’ of section 1794, subdivision (d) requires the trial court to 'base' the prevailing buyer's attorney fee award 'upon actual time expended on the case, as long as such fees are reasonably incurred—both from the standpoint of time spent and the amount charged.'" (Warren v. Kia Motors Am., Inc. (2018) 30 Cal.App. 5th 24, 35. Accord Robertson v. Fleetwood Travel Trailers of California, Inc.

(2006) 144 Cal.App.4th 785, 817.)

III.

ANALYSIS

Plaintiff's Motion is made on grounds including that Plaintiff is the statutory prevailing party after, pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure section 998, and Defendant agreed to repurchase in the sum of $29,000.00. In support of fees, costs and expenses, Plaintiff adds details about discovery and settlement efforts. And the hourly rates claimed are $575.00 and $600.00.

The Opposition sets forth arguments about reducing some amounts, for a routine breach-of-warranty case involving basic discovery and no complex or novel issues, and resulting in settlement before trial.

Initially,

the Court addresses issues of law, and recognizes some case law that does not fully support issues of law argued in the Opposition.

First,

there is a dearth of California law about considering templates usage in deciding motions for attorneys' fees. "A legal proposition asserted without apposite authority necessarily fails." (People v. Taylor (2004) 119 Cal.App.4th 628, 643.) A trial court's referencing counsel's use of templates, including reasoning that fewer attorneys were necessary in a case, was affirmed. (See Morris v. Hyundai Motor Am. (2019) 41 Cal.App.5th 24, 31-33, 39 ["asserted that even though her counsel used 'form documents' in the case, work was necessary to conform those templates to the actual facts of this case."].)

A federal Court of Appeals rejected an argument that a trial court judge should have reduced attorneys' fees on the grounds of counsel's use of a form template for drafting a complaint, where other evidence nonetheless supported the finding of a total reasonable amount. (See Laney v. BBB Logistics, Inc. (11th Cir. 2021) 844 F. App'x 203, 209.)

Second,

the Song-Beverly Act requires allowing fees and costs "determined by the court to have been reasonably incurred by the buyer in connection with the commencement and prosecution" of the case, which is reviewed under the abuse of discretion standard. (Levy v. Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc. (1992) 4

Cal.App.4th 807, 813. Cf. Dominguez v. Am. Suzuki Motor Corp. (2008) 160

Cal.App.4th 53, 60 [section 1794, subdivision (d) conditions an attorney fees award on prevailing in an action, and includes pre-commencement or post-commencement of cases].)

Third,

for purposes of determining a reasonable hourly rate for attorneys' fees, the "relevant 'community' is generally based on where the services are rendered, i.e., where the court is located." (Tidrick v. FCA US LLC (2025) 112 Cal.App.5th 1147, 1157.) Judges are not required to award the lower market rate of attorneys' fees, and may have discretion to determine that the actual rate charged was reasonable. (Syers Properties III, Inc. v. Rankin (2014) 226 Cal.App.4th 691, 702.)

Fourth,

clerical type expenses are recoverable under some case law. As to parties prevailing in an action on a contract with terms for recovery of attorney fees and costs, counsel's disbursement costs, such as secretarial, copying, telephone, expert fees and travel, are recoverable as a part of attorney fees,

"if they represent expenses ordinarily billed to a client and are not included in the overhead component of counsel's hourly rate." (Bussey v. Affleck (1st Dist. 1990) 225 Cal.App.3d 1162, 1166-1167

("Bussey"), abrogated by Hsu

v. Semiconductor Sys., Inc. (2005) 126 Cal.App.4th 1330, 1342 [noting split of authority]. But see, e.g., Benson v. Kwikset Corp. (4th Dist.

2007) 152 Cal.App.4th 1254, 1283 [recognizing split of authority]; Fairchild

v. Park (2d Dist. 2001) 90 Cal.App.4th 919, 930 [disagreeing with Bussey opinion, and following view that attorney fees and expenses are distinctly different by statute]; Robert L. Cloud

& Assocs., Inc. v. Mikesell (1st Dist. 1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 1141, 1154

["attorney fees do not include expenses...."].) Support services, including expenses related to secretaries and paralegals, are includable in an award for attorneys' fees. (City of Oakland v.

McCullough (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1, 7.) Where there is a split of authority, trial courts have discretion to choose between the decisions. (Auto Equity Sales, Inc. v. Superior Court (1962) 57 Cal.2d 450, 456.)

Fifth,

anticipated attorneys' fees (e.g., replies), estimated before they are incurred, are awardable, unless there is opposing evidence supporting judges' findings that the fees are speculative or incredible. (Menezes v. McDaniel (2019) 44 Cal.App.5th 340, 349.)

Sixth,

"in enacting Civil Code section 1794, subdivision (d) the Legislature intended the phrase 'costs and expenses' to cover items not included in " 'the detailed statutory definition of 'costs' " set forth in Code of Civil Procedure section 1033.5." (Warren v. Kia Motors Am., Inc. (2018)

30 Cal.App.5th 24, 42, 43 ["it is indisputable that Warren 'reasonably incurred' the $5,882 cost of the trial transcripts 'in connection with the ... prosecution of [the] action.' ").) The Song-Beverly Warranty Act, "requires payment only of those costs and fees

'determined by the court to have been reasonably incurred by the buyer in connection with the commencement and prosecution' of the underlying action." (Levy

v. Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc. (1992) 4 Cal.App.4th 807, 813.)

Seventh, parties must properly request the court to retain jurisdiction to enforce a settlement and then courts may retain jurisdiction. (Sayta v. Chu (2017) 17 Cal.App.5th 960, 967; Hines v. Lukes (2008) 167 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1182; Hagan Engineering, Inc. v. Mills (2003)

115 Cal.App.4th 1004, 1010-1011; Wackeen

v. Malis (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 429, 440, 441.)

Eighth,

Code of Civil Procedure, section 1033.5, subdivision (a)(1) provides for recovering jury fees as costs. (Chaaban

v. Wet Seal, Inc. (2012) 203 Cal.App.4th 49, 58.)

Here, the Court finds that Plaintiff's two filed declarations, supported by exhibits and specific billing records, support all claimed fees, costs and expenses.

In contrast, the opposing

Declaration of NATALIE KESHISHIAN, filed June 9, 2026, at pages 1 through 3, is unpersuasively limited to addressing (1) the Plaintiff's Complaint and Defendant's Answer, (2) use of templates and content from other cases, (3) discovery conducted, (3) settlement efforts, (4) counsel's conclusion that the Motion content involves unreasonably excessive amounts given the nature of the case and tasks performed, and (5) counsel's opinion based on experience that this case was typical, routine, noncomplex, novel and usual. Attached to that Declaration are over 600 pages of exhibits about discovery and filings in this case, and some documents from other cases for comparison.

The Court finds that the opposing evidence essentially confirms information that shows in the official case docket and the discovery and settlement work described by Plaintiff, while adding conclusory attorney opinions, which information collectively does not support the advocated reductions.

IV.

CONCLUSION

The Court grants the Motion, for reasons stated.
