

FL-22-000365 RAMOS VS RAMOS

County: stanislaus

Division: Family Law

Department: 25

Hearing date: 2026-03-16

Motion: Petitioner's Request for Order re Spousal Support, etc.—DENIED, without prejudice. Petitioner was granted an Order Shortening Time (OST) and the Court mandated personal service of Respondent. Moreover, the matter is post-judgment and therefore valid and timely individual party service of Respondent is jurisdictional. (Fam. Code, § 215(a).) If Petitioner does not appear and demonstrate good cause to continue the hearing to effectuate service, then the matter will be dropped and the temporary orders that were granted shall expire. That said, if both Petitioner and Respondent personally appear, and Respondent expressly waives any objection to notice and service, then the Court may entertain the merits. In that case, the Court previously granted Petitioner's request to order sale of the family home and ordered spousal support payable by Respondent to Petitioner in the amount of $500/month. (Findings and Order After Hearing [FOAH], 6/2/2025, p. 2.) Then, after this, the parties came before the Court on September 3, 2025, and the Court approved the parties' stipulation to change the prior orders so that, instead of sale, Petitioner would refinance the family home to buy out Respondent's interest and would retain exclusive possession in the meantime. (FOAH, 9/3/2025, p. 2.) Petitioner's declaration does not explain, other than claiming "financial hardship," why the refinancing has not occurred and does not offer explanation as to the material change of circumstance that justifies modifying the permanent spousal support order currently in place. Should the merits be reached, these matters will need to be addressed by Petitioner. Petitioner's Request for Order re Spousal Support, etc.—DENIED, without prejudice.

Petitioner was granted an Order Shortening Time (OST) and the Court mandated personal service of Respondent. Moreover, the matter is post-judgment and therefore valid and timely individual party service of Respondent is jurisdictional. (Fam. Code, § 215(a).)

If Petitioner does not appear and demonstrate good cause to continue the hearing to effectuate service, then the matter will be dropped and the temporary orders that were granted shall expire.

That said, if both Petitioner and Respondent personally appear, and Respondent expressly waives any objection to notice and service, then the Court may entertain the merits. In that case, the Court previously granted Petitioner's request to order sale of the family home and ordered spousal support payable by Respondent to Petitioner in the amount of $500/month. (Findings and Order After Hearing [FOAH], 6/2/2025, p. 2.) Then, after this, the parties came before the Court on September 3, 2025, and the Court approved the parties' stipulation to change the prior orders so that, instead of sale, Petitioner would refinance the family home to buy out Respondent's interest and would retain exclusive possession in the meantime. (FOAH, 9/3/2025, p. 2.) Petitioner's declaration does not explain, other than claiming "financial hardship," why the refinancing has not occurred and does not offer explanation as to the material change of circumstance that justifies modifying the permanent spousal support order currently in place. Should the merits be reached, these matters will need to be addressed by Petitioner.
