DISCUSSION:

Motion for Leave to File First Amended Complaint

I. Legal Standard

If a plaintiff wishes to amend a complaint after the answer has been filed or after the demurrer has been filed and after the hearing on the demurrer, or if he or she has already amended the complaint “of course,” permission of the court must be obtained before the amendment will be allowed. (Code Civ. Pro. §§ 473, subd. (a)(1), 576.)

Motions for leave to amend the pleadings are directed to the sound discretion of the court. “The court may, in furtherance of justice, and on any terms as may be proper, allow a party to amend any pleading. . . .” (Code Civ. Pro. § 473, subd. (a)(1); see Code Civ. Pro. § 576.) Policy favors liberally granting leave to amend so that all disputed matters between the parties may be resolved. (See Howard v. County of San Diego (2010) 184 Cal.App.4th 1422, 1428.) Absent prejudice to the adverse party, the court may permit amendments to the complaint “at any stage of the proceedings, up to and including trial.” (Atkinson v. Elk Corp. (2003) 109 Cal.App.4th 739, 761 [internal quotes omitted].)

Although denial is rarely justified, a judge has discretion to deny leave to amend if the party seeking the amendment has been dilatory, and the delay has prejudiced the opposing party. (Morgan v. Sup.Ct. (1959) 172 Cal.App.2d 527, 530; see also Hirsa v. Superior Court (1981) 118 Cal.App.3d 486, 490). An opposing party is prejudiced where the amendment would necessitate a trial delay along with a loss of critical evidence, added preparation expenses, increased burden of discovery, etc. (Magpali v. Farmers Group, Inc. (1996) 48 Cal.App.4th 471, 486-488.)

Ordinarily, the court will not consider the validity of the proposed amended pleading in ruling on a motion for leave since grounds for a demurrer or motion to strike are premature. The court, however, does have discretion to deny leave to amend where a proposed amendment fails to state a valid cause of action as a matter of law and the defect cannot be cured by further amendment. (See California Casualty General Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1985) 173 Cal.App.3d 274, 281 (overruled on other grounds by Kransco v. American Empire Surplus Lines Ins. Co. (2000) 23 Cal.4th 390.))

II. Analysis

Here, Plaintiff “seeks leave to file a First Amended Complaint (“FAC”) to plead additional facts and to substitute a new cause of action for wrongful eviction in place of the cause of action for abuse of process pleaded in the original Complaint, based on evidence and information obtained through discovery conducted after the original Complaint was filed on November 25, 2025.” (Giragossian Decl. ¶3.)

With an absent of prejudice to the adverse party, the court may permit amendments to the complaint “at any stage of the proceedings, up to and including trial.” (Atkinson v. Elk Corp., supra, 109 Cal.App.4th at p. 761 [internal quotes omitted].) Courts recognize a “policy of great liberality in allowing amendments at any stage of the proceeding so as to dispose of cases upon their substantial merits.” (Bd. of Trustees v. Superior Ct. (2007) 149 Cal.App.4th 1154, 1163.) No defendant has opposed this motion and therefore, has not demonstrated any prejudice by allowing this amendment. Consistent with these settled policies, Plaintiff’s motion for leave to file the first amended complaint is proper.

This Court takes no position at this time on the accuracy of the amendment proposed by the Plaintiff. Rather, the “better course of action” is to permit the amendment, “and then let the parties test its legal sufficiency in other appropriate proceedings.” (Atkinson v. Elk Corp., supra, 109 Cal.App.4th at p. 760.)

Accordingly, Plaintiff’s Motion for Leave to File a First Amended Complaint is GRANTED.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
