Motion to remove case from Pathways program: Tentatively deny. The court will consider a short continuance.

Removing the case from the Pathways program does not mean that the court will not expect the case to move at a normal pace. For instance, defendant has been in the case since April 2026. What discovery has the defendant done? What discovery has the plaintiff done? What discovery is pending that has not been responded to? Does defendant have medical records? If so, what records? What records have already been subpoenaed? What records still need to be subpoenaed? Why haven't they been subpoenaed? Why has plaintiff's depo not taken place? Most of the difficulties listed by defendant have to do with plaintiff's proof in the case. The claims are not unusual for an auto accident case. This is not a complex case. It the same as thousands of cases which have moved through this department. Here's what defense says this need to be done: Obtain medical records, depose the plaintiff, maybe a medical exam, maybe designation of experts. That's it. If defense counsel cannot handle that, or they think it is too difficult for them, maybe they need to hire additional counsel to help them. Right now, trial is set 5 months from now. Why can't the case be ready in 5 months? How many more months does the defendant need??

The court will discuss this but is unlikely to take this routine case out of the Pathways program.
