

	the objective starting point of the analysis [citation], it is compatible with this statutory provision.” The court reasoned that the lodestar method is applicable to calculating attorney fees under section 1794, subdivision (d) because “the lodestar adjustment method is the prevailing rule for calculation of statutory attorney fees unless the statute expressly indicates a contrary intent, and no such contrary intent is apparent.” (Id. at 821; Doppes v. Bentley Motors, Inc. (2009) 174 Cal.App.4th 967, 997 (Doppes).) The lodestar adjustment method requires the trial court first to determine a lodestar figure based on actual time spent and reasonable hourly compensation for each attorney. (Robertson, 144 Cal.App.4th at 819, citing Serrano v. Priest (1977) 20 Cal.3d 25, 48–49.) For Song–Beverly Consumer Warranty Act claims, “[a] prevailing buyer has the burden of ‘showing that the fees incurred were “allowable,” were “reasonably necessary to the conduct of the litigation,” and were “reasonable in amount.”’ (Nightingale v. Hyundai Motor America (1994) 31 Cal.App.4th 99, 104; Doppes, 174 Cal.App.4th at 998.) The court then has the discretion to increase or decrease the lodestar figure by applying a positive or negative multiplier based on a variety of factors that the court did not consider when determining the lodestar figure, such as the novelty and difficulty of the issues presented, the extent to which the nature of the litigation precluded other employment by the attorneys, and the contingent nature of the fee award. The court is not required to impose a multiplier; the decision is discretionary. (Galbiso v. Orosi Pub. Util. Dist. (2008) 167 Cal.App.4th 1063, 1089; Nichols v. City of Taft (2007) 155 Cal.App.4th 1233, 1241.) On a motion for attorney's fees, the moving party has the burden of: (1) establishing entitlement to an award, and (2) documenting the appropriate hours expended and hourly rates. (ComputerXpress, Inc. v. Jackson (2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 993, 1020.) It is moving party's burden of proof to show the fees they incurred and that the fees were reasonably incurred. (See Christian Research Institute v. Alno (2008) 165 Cal.App.4th 1315, 1320; Maughan v. Google Tech., Inc. (2007) 143 Cal. App. 4th 1242, 1254.) Reasonable Rates The reasonable market value of the attorney's services is the measure of a reasonable hourly rate. (PLCM Group, Inc. v. Drexler (2000) 22 Cal.4th 1084, 1094.) This standard applies regardless of whether the attorneys' claiming fees charge nothing for their services, charge at below-market or discounted rates, represented the client on a straight contingent fee basis, or are in house counsel. (Id.) To determine that reasonable market value, the court must determine whether the requested rates are within the range of reasonable rates charged by and judicially awarded to comparable attorneys for comparable
