TENTATIVE RULING

EJEME

AIRE,

vs.

ANTHONY

EGBASE.

Case No.:

26STCV18501

Hearing Date: September 28, 2026

Pro

per Plaintiff Ejeme Aire's motion for a limited order to preserve potentially relevant documents and ESI pending ordinary discovery is granted.

Plaintiff Ejeme Aire ("Aire") ("Plaintiff"), in pro per, moves for a limited order requiring Defendants Anthony O. Egbase ("Egbase") and A.O.E. Law & Associates, APC ("AOE Law") (collectively, "Defendants") to preserve potentially relevant documents and ESI pending ordinary discovery. (Notice Motion, pgs. 1-2; C.C.P. §§128, 526.)

Background

Plaintiff filed the operative Complaint in this matter on June 11, 2026, against Defendants.

Plaintiff filed the instant motion on August 4, 2026. Defendants filed their opposition on September 15, 2026. Plaintiff filed her reply on September 15, 2026.

Legal Standard

C.C.P. §128(a) provides, in part:

(a) Every court shall have the power to do all of the following:

(1) To preserve and enforce order in its immediate presence.

(2) To enforce order in the proceedings before it, or before a person or persons empowered to conduct a judicial investigation under its authority.

(3) To provide for the orderly conduct of proceedings before it, or its officers.

(4) To compel obedience to its judgments, orders, and process, and to the orders of a judge out of court, in an action or proceeding pending therein.

(C.C.P. §128(a)(1)-(4).)

Discussion

Plaintiff's motion is granted. This Court errs on the side of caution to ensure all potential discovery within Defendants' possession, custody, and control in this matter is preserved, irrespective of any determination of the likelihood of success on the merits or issues of res judicata in related cases. This Court does not interpret the instant motion to be one for a preliminary injunction; rather, it requests the preservation of evidence.

Conclusion

Plaintiff's motion is granted.

Moving Party to give notice.
